For a good time call...

Student Life . . . 4

So many times I've heard people say, "I can't wait until I graduate." However, I promise you in future years that many people will wish they never would have said that statement because these are the best times of our lives.

"For a good time call..." Don't get the wrong idea. This isn't some crude message written on a bathroom wall, nor is it some form of a cruel joke that's been floating around the halls of East High. This is simply saying that East High is a good time, probably one of the greatest you'll experience in your lives.

Never again will you be able to go and cheer for your peers that are on the football field or basketball court. You will never get another opportunity to experience the feeling and times associated with Homecoming, Spree, or Prom. And you will probably never get another chance to be personally recognized for your attendance, grades, or athletic performance in front of hundreds of people. However, the key is involvement and participation. You have to get involved to enjoy these good times.

So next time you see the statement, "For a good time call..." think East High and not some bathroom script because whether you realize it or not, East High is a good time, one which you will never get another chance to experience for the rest of your life.

Hung up on student life!

"Is it Friday yet?" This is a very familiar question among students. When the bell rings at 2:40, students think of one thing— FUN! They also have their freedom to hang out and be crazy. Some of these places where groups of friends can meet are the malls. Also your best friend's house is a good place to hang out. Then comes the weekend when there's nothing else to do except maybe work.

Even in school students got hung up on fun when it was time to get involved with Homecoming. Some of these activities were dressing to go to the Islands, for Hawaiian Day. The second day was the traditional, working on the farm, Farmer Day. Also, going back in time to Hippie Day. Then a new spark in festivities where girls and guys switched places for a day, Gender Bender Day. Then came Spirit Day, where you know we have a lot of spirit when all you see is a sea of painted faces and clothes of black and red.

Finally there was the Homecoming assembly where history was made. Cory Shelton was named the first Homecoming King ever in the history of East. Then Kelli King was named Homecoming Queen, following her sister's coronation as queen three years ago. To be the second African-American Homecoming Queen was a great honor for Kelli.

We all came together to see North defeated in our Homecoming game. Finally, on October 5, the Homecoming Dance was held in the big gym. After 11p.m. the festivities came to an end, until the next year.

This year's 12-B Formal Dance was held at Pleasant Hill's Elk's Lodge. It was truly a "Winter Wonderland," with colors of black, white and a touch of gold. The song was "Wonderful Tonight," by Eric Clapton.

From hanging out to being involved with school activities, just give us a call and we'll tell you what it's all about!

Even though it was cold and dreary, senior Christopher Jones shows his spirit by decorating his car for the Homecoming Parade.

Talk about taking a plunge! The whole football team decides to smash the North's polar bear at the homecoming assembly. All in all it was a great week.

Romance Lingers

Violins strumming softly in the background. Candle light flickering off the walls. Champagne glasses clinging together in harmony. You're toasting with that six foot, gorgeous, blonde, of the perfect date.

There are many different opinions on the "perfect" date. Many people question themselves where the date would take place and who the date would be with.

"First he came to my door with a red rose. Then he took me to a candlelight dinner, prepared by him. Now that's a perfect date," junior Angela Irwin said with more than just a lucky smile.

"My perfect date would be on a cruise ship to the Bahamas," explains junior Jennifer Thurman.

Senior Josh Hanson has a different approach to an impressive evening. He would show up at his girlfriend's door with a dozen, fully-bloomed, red roses. Then he added, "I would drive her to a different, peaceful city and have a picnic under the stars."

As his girlfriend, junior Lisa Flynn, is getting ready for a luxurious night, dressed in a shiny, beautiful, simple black dress, she has no idea what Josh has in store for her. "He'll probably take me to a fancy restaurant. Then we'll spend the rest of the night quietly,' Lisa predicted about her rendezvous with Josh.

To really impress the one that you love requires creativity. Junior Matt Oltman has a unique evening set. "We would fly to Australia and see an opera at the Sydney Opera House," he said.

"You need several qualities for your perfect date," said junior Ryan Mullin, as he discussed his ideal match up. "She has to be attractive, have a sense of humor, and be dressed in a tan colored mini-skirt."

"I would just need a spark between my date and I to know it was perfect," senior Jason Adams said.

Of course, not all dates can begin or end with that certain spark or have those specific and certain qualities. Junior Chad Bailiff told his side:

"The night began on the wrong foot. We were late to the movie, and it was sold out. So then we headed up to Saylorville. On the way there I got a speeding ticket for going 50 mph in a 30 mph zone. We were not hitting it off, so I then dropped her off at home."

Is there a such thing as a perfect date? If so, how would one know? These answers are stored in the hearts of many EHS students and someday will be uncovered. Whether wild or crazy, or a fantasy come true, what perfect date best fits you?

Homecoming week sparks spirit

Homecoming Week is a time to dress up in outrageous outfits and show your school spirit.

It all started on Monday when the students and some teachers dressed up in their best Hawaiian outfits which mainly consisted of grass skirts and leis.

"Farmer Day" was held on Tuesday. It was a day when you could see everything from old overalls to hair in pigtails.

One of the more common days would have to have been "Hippie Day." It was a time where students could wear their favorite tie-dye outfits and say "peace."

One of the newest Homecoming Days would have had to have been "Gender Bender Day." On this day you could walk down the hall and find a guy in a mini-skirt or a girl in a suit and tie.

Friday was "Spirit Day." It wasn't a big deal to see scarlets with their faces painted red and black or even the band strutting down the halls.

MONDAY

"Aloha!" This was a common word heard about the halls of our school during Hawaiian Day. Showing their school spirit are seniors Stacey Pettorini, Jenny Woods, Becky Pollard, and junior Angie Irwin.

TUESDAY

WEDNESDAY THURSDAY FRIDAY

One of the favorite days of Homecoming Week was "Hippie Day." Senior Brett Bellis shows his school spirit by dressing up and uttering the familiar word "peace."

As you can tell from their low-cut blouses and mini-skirts, juniors Mike Keller, Tom Bartram, Johnny Davis and Bill Gyer dress up for "Gender Bender Day" during Homecoming Week.

One of the most memorable times of Homecoming was the Spirit Parade that was lead around the building before school on Friday (Spirit Day).

During Homecoming the Senior Board provided an opportunity for freshmen to see what Homecoming is like. Seniors Megan Christenson, Trina Perez, Cory Shelton, Jay Elliot and Barrett Rogness show the freshmen how to dress as hippies.

From the tight mini-skirt to his bare navel, senior Josh Hansen does a wonderful impression of a female. "Gender Bender Day" was just one of the many highlights of the 1991-92 Homecoming Week.

Unforgettable!

The school year offered many exciting and spirit-building events. One of the most traditional and important was the Homecoming Assembly. This year's Homecoming Assembly was very special because it combined elements of the past and present. It was a time when alumni, students, and teachers could show off their everlasting school spirit and pride. It also allowed a time for everyone to get involved in cheering our school on toward a victory against the North High Polar Bears.

One of the most exciting events at the assembly was the appearance of the cheerleaders that had attended the school as early as 1942. They thrilled the school body by doing a couple of their cheers. Everyone enjoyed their energetic jumps and their wonderful high-kicks.

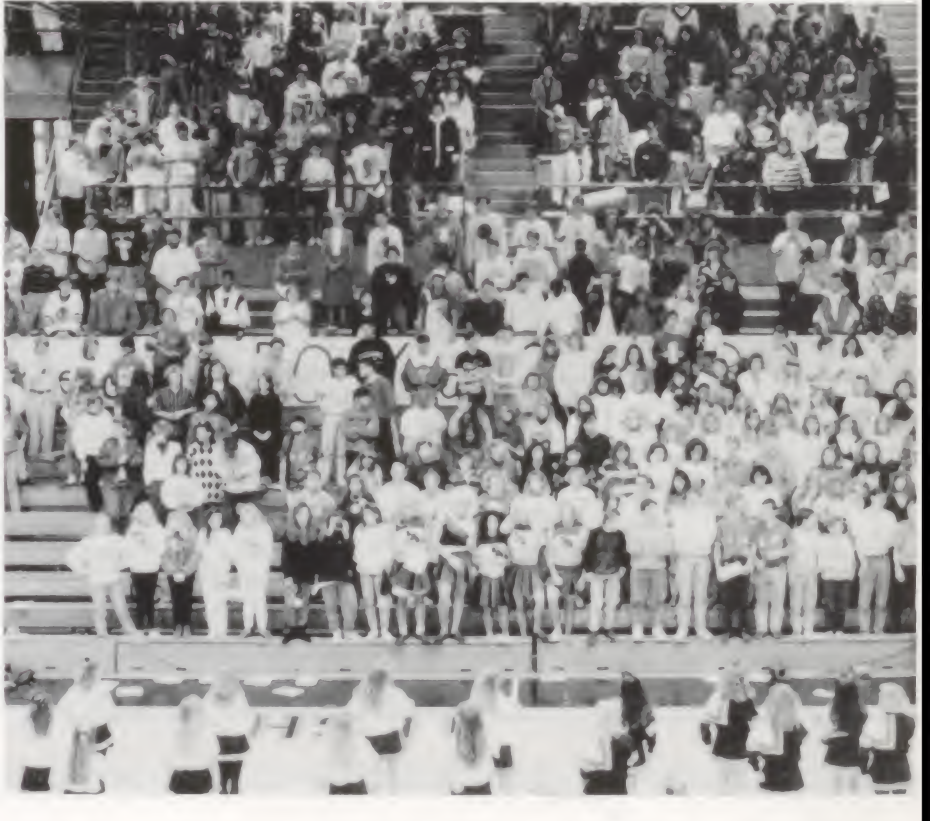

"The Spirit Chain is always fun and it raises a lot of money for Pep "E" Club. The good thing about the Spirit Chain is that it involves every class," said Mrs. Shirley Blenderman, Pep "E" Club sponser.

A more recent tradition has been the performance of the Scarlet Vibrations at the assembly. The mimes performed one of their original skits in which members of the football team participated.

The assembly was highlighted by the announcement of the Homecoming King and Queen. This year it was unique because it was the first time the school nominated a Homecoming King. To their amazement, seniors Cory Shelton and Kelli King were nominated by their fellow Scarlets.

As you can see the Homecoming Assembly was very special. Can it get any better than this?

The Scarlets dutifully stand for the playing of the school song. This was one of the more unusual views of the Homecoming Assembly.

Sitting on the stage are the Homecoming representatives and nominees for the Homecoming Court.

Senior Jay Elliot (a.k.a. the North High Polar Bear) runs frantically away from the Scalpin' Scarlets of East High. As you can see here, the Scarlets succeeded in capturing him. The only problem for Jay was that the entire varsity football team pounced on him.

One of the highlights of Homecoming was the performance of our former cheerleaders. They showed us that after 50 years they still have what it takes to raise the spirits of East High students.

Dance is 'one of a lifetime'

Senior Becky Pollard works diligently to decorate the gym for the Homecoming Dance. These workers worked very hard and did a wonderful job.

The Homecoming Dance provided enjoyment for all who attended. Here students dance to the music in the beautifully made up gymnasium.

On October 5th another vital part of Homecoming was held, the Homecoming Dance. The dance provided a time to dance and have fun with your school friends. The gym was decorated beautifully and it was a night of magic.

The theme of the Homecoming Dance was "Love of a Lifetime" which described the night perfectly for some. The three colors that made up Homecoming were red, black and silver. These colors helped convey the school spirit and pride we have in our school.

Students from all grade levels helped in making this Homecoming Dance a special one. About 25 people got up early to decorate the gym and they did a tremendous job. East staff and students appreciated the time and dedication that it took.

These unidentified Scarlets help to prepare the gym for the long-awaited Homecoming Dance. These preparations required many hours of work and planning.

Spirit, enthusiasm aid Scarlets in victory

Touchdown! The crowds of fans applaud with excitement as the ball soars into the end zone. Smiles, laughter and enthusiasm surround the stadium. The Scarlet spirit is evident as the fans cheer their team on to victory.

The spirit of the student body rose as the athletic teams brought in one victory after another. "Everyone has been coming and cheering us on," said junior football player Aaron Abbas. "It's been really great because we actually won our Homecoming game," commented junior Erik Bair.

Of course, everyone had their own opinions on which class was really the most spirited. "The junior and senior classes have the most spirit," said Abbas. "The freshmen are the same as usual."

Sophomore Scott Hart experienced another situation, "The freshmen were louder than us at the Homecoming assembly! It was embarrassing!"

Whether freshman or senior, teacher or student, everyone possessed that special East High pride. It was a spirit shown throughout the year in victory after victory.

The Scarlet fans cheer loudly as the boys' basketball team pounds its way to a victory over Ankeny during the basketball jamboree.

Junior Rusty Anderson makes his contribution to school pride by selling Scarlet baseball jerseys during the lunch hour.

Freshman cheerleaders Christy Snell and Lindsay Cochran proudly attach their hand-made wall signs to the freshman boys' lockers. The cheerleaders put a lot of hard work into the decoration of the athletes' lockers on the day of the game.

Wonderful Tonight!

Every Monday morning, approximately 50 senior girls, or hostesses, met at 7:35 to help plan the annual 12-B formal. Decisions had to be made and getting that many girls to agree was not an easy task. The most difficult problem was finding an available place during the holiday season. The Pleasant Hill Elks Lodge was finally decided upon.

Each hostess was required to attend all meetings and sell two tickets to any junior or senior girl. The hostesses also came before the dance to help decorate in black, white, and gold. The dance was December 21 from 8 pm to 11 pm. The theme song was Eric Clapton's "Wonderful Tonight." Music was provided by Complete Music and Photography by Stovers.

Senior Kristen Carlstedt said, "It was really tough planning a dance without the school's help, but all the girls chipped in to make the dance a success. Every aspect of the dance turned out great. I think everyone who attended had a really good time."

You can tell by the expressions on the faces of seniors Angie Herrington and Lisa Cain that they are having a wonderful night.

By dancing the night away all who attended the annual 12-B Formal proved that the evening was a success.

Lots of hard work and dedication were needed to prepare the Elks Lodge. Stacey Thompson, Tanya English and Amy Harrison are busy inflating balloons before the dance.

Midnight Masquerade

The annual Spree dance sponsored by Pep"E"Club and teachers Mrs. Blenderman and Mrs. Nemmers was unique to any other dance throughout the year. The dance was held February 8 from 8-11. The theme was "Midnight Masquerade Ball", and the colors were purple, black and gold. To go along with the theme, Pep"E"Club held a mask contest. The most original prize went to senior Tammie Chamberlain, theme went to senior Traci Wickersham, and the grand prize went to sophomore Kristi Wagner.

The night was packed with funfilled events. Couples could get married in the marriage booth or see "Madame Stroope" to find out what their future had in store for them. Or, if towards the end of the night couples weren't getting along, they could have each other thrown in jail.

There were about 40 active members that actually helped plan the dance. Pep"E"Club president, senior Lisa Cain, said, "With everyone helping the preperation went really fast and was a lot of fun. I was proud to help make it all happen."

"You may now kiss the bride." Justice Gilchrist says as juniors Tim Vail and Wendy Burr tie the knot.

Winter Break

No snow meant no fun for some

There it was, Winter Break, finally here. But wait! Something was missing. What was so strange about this Christmas?

"I think this Winter Break was strange because there was no snow, which meant I couldn't go sledding with my friends," said junior Travis Higday.

Junior Matt Plummer found an easy solution to this no-snow problem. "I went skiing at Fun Valley in Montezma, Iowa where they make their own snow." Skiing was a popular activity enjoyed by many students this Winter Break.

The break started out on Friday with the annual Winter Break assembly. "The buckets and tarps on the floor made the assembly strange," commented senior John Torrey. The roof had sprung a leak the day of the assembly and made for a messy and hectic event.

"The best thing about the assembly was the cheerleaders and Steppers who gave a great performance," added senior Jon Merryfield. The cheerleaders did some wonderful holiday cheers and the Steppers did their novelty dance. The Color Guard amazed the crowd with their flag and rifle routine and the Acappella Choir put us all in the holiday spirit.

Many people spent this break working to pay for all those gifts. "I even had to work until 11 p.m. on New Years Eve," stated junior Mike Nothdorf. These late night shifts were not a problem for workers who slept late into the afternoon.

The break was a great way to relax for all students. Since Christmas fell on a Wednesday, students had a longer than usual vacation for a total of 18 consecutive days away from school. That meant one thing for junior Matt Plummer who commented, "No school, no homework, no curfew, no alarm clock." For many seniors, the break meant applying to colleges and universities around the country in preparation for next year.

All in all, senior Ricky Hardy summed the break up saying "It was a great chance to get away from school and let off some steam.

Seniors Jeremy Mendenhall, Tracy Crabb, Diane Shellabarger, and James "Barney" McCuen wear their various college sweatshirts of their favorite universities. Many seniors spent the break applying to colleges and universities around the country.

Junior Tad Hays is desperately seeking the snow that he needs to ski this winter break. His attempt to ski the slope here at school appears to be a failure.

Freshmen Kevin Schreckengast and Brian Schnoor are caught sitting on Santa's lap at a local mall during the break. Many other freshmen also enjoyed their annual visit to Santa.

The Acappella Choir beautifully sang many carols at the assembly and got all the students into the Christmas spirit.

1:00, 2:00, 3:00--Rock!

"Hey dudette! There's this awesome party kickin' at Fred's house!" boasts Max.

"Aw, not tonight Max, I have a 12:00 curfew," Sara said sadly as she declined.

"That's too bad, dude. I'm out all night. Gotta run, babe. See ya."

Does this situation or one similar hound you weekend after weekend?

Many students today think that one's sex determines how late their curfew is. Senior Debbie Hare stated, "Parents are more protective of their daughters," while sophomore Jenny Harridge added, "Parents are more paranoid about girls." Junior Joe Shelton agreed. "It's different for girls," he replied. "If you were a girl going out with a guy then your curfew would be different than if you were going out with just the girls." Shelton's curfew was 12:30 a.m. while Hare's was 12a.m. and Harridge's was 1a.m.

Opposed to this way of thinking are senior Shawn Carmichael, junior Kerry Mann, and sophomore Scott Hart. Carmichael's curfew was 1a.m. unless he calls to tell his parents that he'll be late. "I don't think the times ae different for girls. It's the same because we are the same age."

"The longer I stay out the more trouble I can get into. My mom and dad make me come home early," said a sly Mann, "but I get to stay out later than my guy friends because their parents know they're nuts!" Mann's curfew was 12:30a.m.

Hart replied, "Parents have curfews because they don't want to stay up and wait for their children, not because they are boys or girls." Hart's curfew was 1a.m. basically because he drove and his friends had to be home at 12a.m.

When is a reasonable time for a curfew? Almost all students agreed that they needed to stay out later. "I need to socialize!" replied a grinning Shawn Carmichael. Debbie Hare added, "There isn't enough time to really have fun when you have to be home at 12." Jenny Harridge made the comment that seniors should have the longest curfews. "Seniors should be more responsible," she stated. In the exception, freshman Kristi Farrell didn't think her curfew was unreasonable. "I'm only a freshman! I should have an earlier curfew!" Farrell's curfew was 11p.m.

Many of the curfews that are set ae judged on other friends' curfews. Most people said that their friends that were girls had curfews of 12a.m. to 1a.m., while their friends that were guys had curfews of "whenever they got home."

Most punishments were mainly that they be required to come home earlier the next weekend. The exceptions to this were for Debbie Hare and Jenny Harridge. Debbie got grounded for two weeks while Jenny got grounded from the phone! Then notice that both Shawn Carmichael, Scott Hart, and freshman Aaron Bennett received only "a stern talking to" for missing their curfews.

"Hey Max! How about escorting me to Jen's party?" asks Sara.

"No way awesome babe. The parentals said I had to be home at 12:00"

"That's too bad, Max. I'm out all night!" smiles Sara.

The early morning blues

"Dead calm" ...that pretty much describes most area neighborhoods at four of five o'clock in the morning, except in a few isolated homes such as that of seventeen-year-old Steve Safris.

"I wake up!" said Safris. "That's my body! Sometimes I'll just pop out of bed at four or five in the morning. I enjoy the peace and quiet...it really gets me going."

"I know a lot of people prefer to sleep late," said eighty-year-old John Goodrich, "but I like to wake up around three or four in the morning. That's when the air is at its freshest, and, at my age so am I!"

Surprisingly, John and Steve are not alone; not everyone likes to snooze until nine or ten. A multitude of people like John and Steve choose to wake up in the wee hours of the morning.

"It starts my day off right," said junior Ashley Calhoun. "I don't like to be hurried, so I get up early and take my time getting ready for the day."

These extra hours of peace and quiet help get many people fired up for an exciting day. It also presents teenage girls like junior Missy Brown plenty of extra time to do their hair, put on their make-up, and preform all of those other "important duties". "I get up at 7:15 every morning. It gives me just enough time to prepare myself for the day," said Brown.

"It's a great time to get things done without distractions," said Safris. "If I didn't get things done early in the morning, I'd spend the rest of the day thinking about having to do them later!"

Although many people arise early by choice, others are motivated by early morning obligations. Junior Sara McDaniel attends stepper practice each weekday morning at 6:30! "I get up about 5:45, and I head for school about 6:20." This early-bird schedule does not appeal to McDaniel. "I hate it! I'm usually really tired the rest of the day...especially in the afternoon," she said.

"I'm a real night owl, so getting up early for cheerleading practice is hard," said junior Jenny Enfield. "I sometimes come to practice with curlers still in my hair!"

Getting up early is a problem for many members of the cheerleading squad, steppers, the band and the color guard. The hard work at practice can really cause them to work up a sweat! "It would be a lot easier if we could get ready for school and then go to practice," said McDaniel.

"We usually bring our school clothes to change into," said Enfield. "I usually don't have my make-up on yet, so I have to put that on, too!"

Both girls agree that it is all worth it, however. "When we preform it's cool because we know that we have worked hard to be as good as we are!" said McDaniel.

"You can really tell that we've worked at practice when it comes to game time," said Enfield. "Even though I hate the schedule, I love to cheer!"

So while most of us tell our alarm clocks to "give it a rest" and roll over for an extra five minutes of sleep, we can rest assured that there will always be those early-morning risers to keep the world...interesting.

During the coup in the USSR, loyalities were divided between fellow countrymen. Anti-coup tanks filled with patriotic citizens filled the streets. The later dissolution of the USSR as a world power was one of the most profound events of the 20th century.

Magic Johnson, the famed Los Angeles Lakers basketball player, announced that he was tested positive for the AIDS virus. Johnson wanted to still be a member on the 1992 Olympic basketball team.*

Former colleague Anita Hill accused Clarence Thomas of sexual harrassment. However, her charges were proved wrong in a highly televised congressional trial.

After 2,455 days as a hostage, Terry Anderson was once more a free man. On December 4, 1991, Anderson was set free.

As a result of the war in the Gulf, oil fires raged on for months. Thick grey smoke signaled the dangerous fires.

A world of laughter. A world of tears.

Whew! What a year for headlines. Gulf War, Soviet Coup, Clarence Thomas, Magic Johnson, Hostages Released....

When President Gorbachev failed to improve the economic situation in the Soviet Union, Yeltson took over. As the economy failed even more, several republics declared themselves independent, and the U.S.S.R. dissolved.

After Thurgood Marshall retired, Bush's candidate for Supreme Court Justice was Clarence Thomas. However, former colleague Anita Hill accused Thomas of sexual harassment. After a highly televised Congressional trial, tensions ran high with the acquittal. Thomas was then quietly sworn in.

After six and a half years of imprisonment, the last of the American hostages were released. Terry Anderson, Joseph Cicippio, Thomas Sutherland, and Terry Waite were among English and French hostages all set free. Each of the hostages was happily greeted home.

After the war in the Gulf, the lives of those involved were still being affected for months. Kuwaiti oil fires filled the air with thick grey smoke. City streets were littered with trash and rubble.

After Cuba lost its Soviet parentage, it suffered politically and economically. Due to intolerable living conditions, refugees came to America daily. Using anything that floats, they began the long, harsh journey to the United States where they sought political asylum.

As a protest against Communism, the Yugoslavian people staged protests in the streets. To try and maintain order, the government had military troops and tanks monitor the streets.

Among the candidates for governor of Louisiana was David Duke. With his views on racism and white supremacy, he inflamed many racial tensions. Cross burnings and KKK meetings were among examples of racial conflict still alive in the America of 1992.

After we became more and more environmentally aware of our planet, we were increasingly aware of it's destruction. Rain forests were burned and cleared to make way for cities. In America, forests were cut down for paper and wood supplies. Every day more and more animals were placed on the endangered list. As the ozone layer was eaten away, global warming became a more realistic threat.

During a televised announcement, Earvin "Magic" Johnson, everyone's hero, declared that he tested positive for the AIDS virus. This brought the alarming disease into everyone's consciousness.

Once a Christian singer, Amy Grant established herself as a pop sensation. With #1 hits such as "Baby, Baby "and "Every Heartbeat," Grant shot up the charts.

Voted as the #1 Rock Band in the world, Guns and Roses was once more a major force in the music industry. With their new releases, "Use Your Illusion I&II," G&R once more had record sales.

Burned rain forests in Brazil show the extent of damage done to pave the way for progress.

GOODBYE STUDENT LIFE! HELLO FUTURE!

As we leave this year behind, let us take a look back. We had the traditional events and some new twists. Homecoming, 12-B Formal, and Spree were just the beginning.

The new twist came when Dr. Wand, the hypnotist came and put 25 people under hypnosis. While they were under, they "performed" in Elvis' band, they rocked out to "Jail House Rock," with Mr. Zelenovich playing the part of Elvis.

Another new event was the Scarlet Sweepstakes. This was a program to encourage students to attend school everyday. At the end of each week, a name was drawn and if they had perfect attendance they received a cash prize.

The Dew Crew was highly visible and encouraged kids to "dew it to you," to drink Mountain Dew instead of alcoholic drinks. The members went to schools and talked with little kids about drugs and alcohol. "We helped a lot of people who have had trouble with drugs and alcohol," commented junior Katie Goodrich. The Dew Crew learned a lot about each other, drugs and alcohol.

So, as the year drew to an end, everyone looked toward the future year with happy memories of all that had happened. Between the student government and the entire school body, it could not have been done without them.

These guys were hanging loose at Spree Dance. They definitely knew a good place to go for a good time.

Thinking of all the endless possibilities of their future, these students look toward it with high hopes and everlasting determination to make all their dreams come true.

Busy with academics!

Busy, Busy... it's the busy signal you have reached in Academics. Please hang up and try back later. When many of us think about studying, there are a hundred and one better things to do that come to mind. Though for some odd reason we always pick the studying to do.

We often try to find way to make it more fun and less strenuous. For instance students studying at work, or while talking on the phone, watching TV, or listening to the radio. When it comes to school, though, these ways won't work.

This is where many of the teachers help by trying to make learning more enjoyable. They make the classroom as interesting as possible by teaching in exciting ways.

Some of these teaching styles include field trips, such as the senior English trip to Minneapolis to see Shakespeare's "Tempest," or the physics trip to Chicago to tour the oceanarium, planetarium, and Hard Rock Cafe. These trips give the students hands-on learning on the subjects they are studying.

Another tactic is the showing of films which give the students a new perspective on the topics they are studying.

"Different teaching techniques help me better understand the material because, first of all, they keep me from getting bored and ignoring the material. Secondly, not only am I reading the material, but I can see it visually, like in films," said senior Jennifer Rouse.

So the next time you are looking for a good time just pick a subject and start studying. It's guaranteed you will learn more than you ever thought you could. "This is true!" said senior Jermane Brown.

While touring through the sculpture garden during the senior English trip to Minneapolis, students saw interesting and unusual things, like the famous over-sized cherry resting on a spoon.

Academics is just a small word to describe all the many subjects it covers.

STUDENT RENAISSANCE JUNIOR BOARD

Committees call for East High pride

Ask any East High graduate what advice they would give to a high school student, and they would probably tell you to take advantage of the few short years you have here at good ol' East High. Getting involved is the key and this year there were two new groups formed to promote students' participation in their school careers.

The Student Renaissance committee, formed by Mrs. Fae Ramsay, aimed to improve the overall culture and climate of EHS. "The committee was started as an attendance committee," said Ramsay. "We discovered last summer that fifty percent of East High students missed between ten and twenty days of school during the 1990-1991 school year." The committee is working to improve that situation.

The group met during fourth hour once every few weeks. They played a key role in planning the attendance assembly, designing perfect attendance T-shirts and impacting the student body in a positive manner. Ramsay stated, "Our goal is to reinforce students for overall academic excellence. We are hoping to reward the students that are here and get others to do the same."

Junior Board was another organization created by junior advisor Fae Ramsay. "The junior officers started meeting with Mrs. Ramsay once a week," said president Nicole Wagner. "We decided that we should get the junior class more involved so we started the Junior Board."

Although the board was just starting out, the group showed a lot of leadership and became very involved in promoting East High pride. "During Halloween we sold ghost suckers with a message," said board member Ashley Calhoun. "We sold chocolates, poinsettias and nuts for fundraisers during the winter holidays."

"I would definitely encourage the class of 94 to continue Junior Board," said Calhoun. "It gives you the opportunity to have a leadership role before your senior year!"

Ramsay agreed. "Student input is important in both of these programs because they are programs for students. If no one is excited, it's pointless."

"It was nice to get the junior class involved in the school."
-Junior Shannon Carlson

"We are trying to encourage kids to come to school and to make attendance a positve thing."
-Junior Annika Stroope

"We are trying to reinforce kids for overall academic excellence."
-Advisor Fae Ramsay

"Junior Board was a very positive experience for everyone. It gave us all an opportunity to develop our leadership skills."
-Junior Ashley Calhoun

"I enjoyed being in Junior Board a lot. We had a really great year."

Junior academic letterwinner Nikki Price listens intently during an interview as she jots down important quotes for a Scroll article.

Selling turkey cookies was just one of the National Honor Society's many fund raisers. Junior Latasha Brown can't pass up the good deal and purchases one from Bee Thongsoum to send someone special a turkey cookie for them to gobble up.

"I worked hard by studying and paying attention in class. Being an academic letterwinner is my reward for my hard work."
- Junior Corrie Proska

"Our standards for earning an academic letter are considerably higher than other schools. It is really an accomplishment and shows hard work when you earn an academic letter."
- Junior Annika Stroope

"I think that if you work hard it pays off in the end. I am glad that my hard work has paid off by becoming an academic letterwinner."
- Sophomore Lori Lethcoe

"Getting an academic letter is an honor that shows we really do take school seriously."
- Junior Valerie Mechem

"I was really looking forward to this year and all of the activities that the National Honor Society had planned."
- Senior Carrie Hemingson

"The pie in the face contest that the National Honor Society had was a lot of fun."
-Senior Scott Donohoe

"When you put 25 academic, talented and involved students together what do you get? National Honor Society."
-Mr. Larry Hutzell

ENGLISH

Mrs. Rush*, eleventh grade English teacher, involves her students in a class discussion over American literature. Well known for her peppy attitude, she encourages her students to have this attitude as well.*

Mr. Raymond's senior English class had an opportunity to travel to Minneapolis. Scott Littell*,* Loran Hoisington*, and* Ray Bollinger prove that the trip wasn't all seriousness.

Taking notes in senior English again. Jermaine Brown, Joe Valadez, Tron England, Jeff Meislahn, and Todd Rabe concentrate intently (?) on the assignment of the day.

"This year I took tenth grade advanced English. I'm hoping it will help correct my use of language, especially when it comes to writing a resume."
—Sophomore Melissa Gervais

"Hopefully, taking advanced English this year has helped me become a better writer and has prepared me for a possible career in law."
—Sophomore Jane Burgess

"Since I may be studying law, the advanced English class that I was involved in may help me figure out the Latin in law books."
—Junior Nikki Price

"I feel that learning about major writers and the words they use will help me to comprehend what I'll be learning in college courses."
—Senior Joe Valadez

"In senior English I learned about literature and authors which will help me in the future. We studied Chaucer and Canterbury Tales. I also had a great time on the senior English trip."
—Senior Stacy Thompson

MATHEMATICS

With his trusty calculator by his side, senior Brad Peterson tries desperately to complete his difficult algebraic equation.

*Even though junior Travis Higday may not understand the math problem, he tries to explain it the best he can to junior Chad Swertfager.

Junior Brad Sams picks the easy way to get a math test done. This could be a very effective way just as long as he doesn't get caught!

Senior Sarah Brown feels confident that she knows the answer to her trig/college math problem but Mr. Hickman has the real answer, the right answer.

"Mathematics is gratifying to teach because I know the answers will always be concrete."
- Teacher Mrs. Cross

"I like Mr. Carlson because he explains our assignments thoroughly."
-Junior Heidi Gerstenberger

"Pre-Algebra was a challenge, but I managed to pull through."
-Freshman Andi Gerstenberger

"Pre- Calculus is difficult, but I feel it will help my college career."
-Junior Laura Keller

"Even though I really didn't understand Algebra II, Mr. Larsen pulled me through."
- Senior Kathy Winget

"Math was exciting to take because I undersood it very well."
-Freshman Jeanette Deever

"Algebra II was rewarding to take because the teacher was there to answer my questions."
-Junior Tina Kalar

"Although Geometry was challenging for me as a sophomore, Algebra II is much easier. Even though it is still confusing at times, it is still a good class."
- Junior Nicole Simon

Mr. Carlson made math fun. This is one class I've stayed with and gotten a decent grade."
-Junior Terry Thomas

SCIENCE

As his students work on their current Physics lab, teacher Mr. Pat Puetz calls out his instructions through his bullhorn before dropping his steel ball off the roof of the school.

Over the summer the science classes took on a complete makeover. Both the Chemistry and the Physics room received a brand new look modernizing the classrooms totally. The remodeling took several hard hours and many long days, which all the science students are more than thankful for.

"Chemistry was a hard subject. It took a lot of time and effort to understand, but luckily I got a great teacher like Mr. Hutzell who explained it well."
-Junior Ashley Calhoun

"Physics was a very challenging course, and the labs were extremely interesting and fun to do."
-Senior Traci Crabb

"Dissecting a frog was my favorite part of Biology. My second favorite thing was all the labs we did."
-Sophomore Don Stoutenberg

"Science was never really one of my favorite classes, but with having Mr. Rudisill for Earth Science it really became interesting for once."
-Freshman Kathy Hackett

"The Chicago trip was my favorite part of Physics this year. I realized I can have fun and learn a lot all at the same time."
-Senior Jenna Duden

"Having the new Physics room really helped by making the labs easier,and it also made the room more modern."
-Senior Fred Livesay

SOCIAL STUDIES

Mr. Don Murphy stands next to his overhead trying to explain to his students the lesson that he has diligently prepared. The use of the overhead helps the students to understand better. It also helps them in learning better note-taking skills.

As his students wait patiently, Mr. Bill Ackerman works contently on his projector so that his students can watch an educational film. Films are a popular alternative to regular classwork. They help to get hard-to-get ideas across to students.

While playing the news game, social studies teacher John Bankus calls upon an eager student to answer the immediate question. Many students enjoyed playing the news game every Friday.

While sitting in the front row of their Government class, seniors Monty Knode , Shalonda Kidd and Ryan Hill listen intently to what the teacher is saying.

"I think Applied Economics was very helpful to students because it showed you how to plan a budget and other important things you need in life. You also got to sell a product for East. It taught me to get out and speak up in the world.
-Senior Wendi Lucas

"I really liked World History because it taught me a lot about the past."
-Freshman Melissa Estrada

'I actually enjoyed American History because I liked the reading we did about the past."
-Junior Janelle Thompson

"I liked applied Economics because I liked the idea of selling a product and making a profit. It helped me to understand the economic system."
-Senior Lori Padgett

"Applied Economics would have been a lot easier to take, but colleges recommend that students take regular Economics."
-Senior Sarah Brown

"Government helped me to understand the past and soon-to-be future."
-Senior Shondra Kellogg

BUSINESS & ARTS

Sophomore Robert Crooks uses a plasma cutter to cut the metal he plans to use for his project.

Sophomores Mario Alba and Jeff Carroll use a pin welder and pin puller to remove a dent from the car they are working on.

Senior Wendi Lucas continues working steadily on her drawing. She uses her unique ideas in her artwork. This is only one of the many types of projects done in Design 1.

In order to improve her speed, freshman Angela Reihsen tries her hardest to type as fast as she can.

Sophomore O Peachie Jackson uses all different types of pottery tools to make designs on her latest piece.

Senior Jeremy Allen carefully uses an etching knife to carve into wood to create a block press. From that final design, he can make an ink print.

"I liked art class because I've always had a love for art and this class was easy and fun."
-Senior Chris Eichorn

"I liked shop because it was a great experience to have worked on your own car or someone else's car."
-Sophomore Mark Juarez

"Accounting was a good class even if you don't want to become an accountant. I learned a lot of valuable skills that will help me later in life."
-Senior Megan Christenson

"I felt that computer class was very important for all students to have taken. Computers are everywhere you go. Everyone should have that skill."
-Senior Kim Thompson

"Typing, I feel , is one of the most valuable classes any student can take if they are planning on ever really being successful in life. Practically every career possible involes typing. I suggest everyone take it."
-Senior Jessica Hare

Foreign Language Home Economics

Freshman Mariela Huber shakes a maraca to the beat of the Spanish music playing during a fiesta in Spanish class.

Senior Erica Cunningham takes a bite out of her class' scrumptuously-made crepes. Crepes are a French delicacy served in French restaurants.

Junior Chad Hurley acts out a skit during a fiesta in Spanish class. In the skit, he can practice using some common phrases he has learned in Spanish.

Senior Tiffany Wyant carefully lays out her fabric so she can press the seams of her newest sewing idea.

"Srta. Hansen makes learning Spanish an interesting experience."
—Senior Eric Boatwright

"Srta. Hansen taught me Spanish for three out of the four years I've taken it. Spanish IV is a challenge because there aren't many friends that can help me. I intend to use Spanish in my future to help me communicate with Spanish foreigners.
—Junior Tricia Nelson

"I'm taking sewing class to learn and excel."
—Junior Shawna Ashby

"I wish I would have taken sewing class sooner. I enjoy creating my own fashions."
— Senior Tiffany Wyant

"I like cooking class because it's an easy class and I want to learn how to cook."
— Junior Jennifer Growley

CENTRAL CAMPUS MASS COMMUNICATIONS

Senior Joleen Kendall receives additional instruction from Mr. Jeff Bock while working on proofs for the Scroll.

Senior Jake Peterson commented, "I have attended Central Campus for five years. I feel it gives students a chance to expand their interests by offering advanced placement courses."

Senior Jeff Barker said. "Central Campus is going to prepare me for college. I also have met a lot of people from different schools all around Des Moines."

Senior Joleen Kendall said, "Graphic Arts class is very educational and it requires constant dedication and good attendance."

Senior Chad Fisher commented, "We learn a lot about printing and responsibility when we have to meet deadlines to help get the paper published on time."

Senior Mark Erickson said, "I've been attending Central Campus since eighth grade. I feel the quality of higher education offered will help me when I go on to college next year."

School, school, and more school. College Oh No!

"I'm so sick of school, I can't wait till I graduate." These are famous words I'm sure we have all heard or have actually said ourselves. If these are true feelings, then why is it that after we are finally set free by a diploma saying we have graduated, we turn around and pay to go back to the one place we complained so much about... SCHOOL!

All students have a different reason for going to college. Some say their parents are making them, or that they can't get a job without it.

Whatever the reason, the decision to go is only a small part of the complex procedure of actually attending.

Not many of us just wake up in the morning and know which college it is we want to attend. Picking a college is a tough decision.

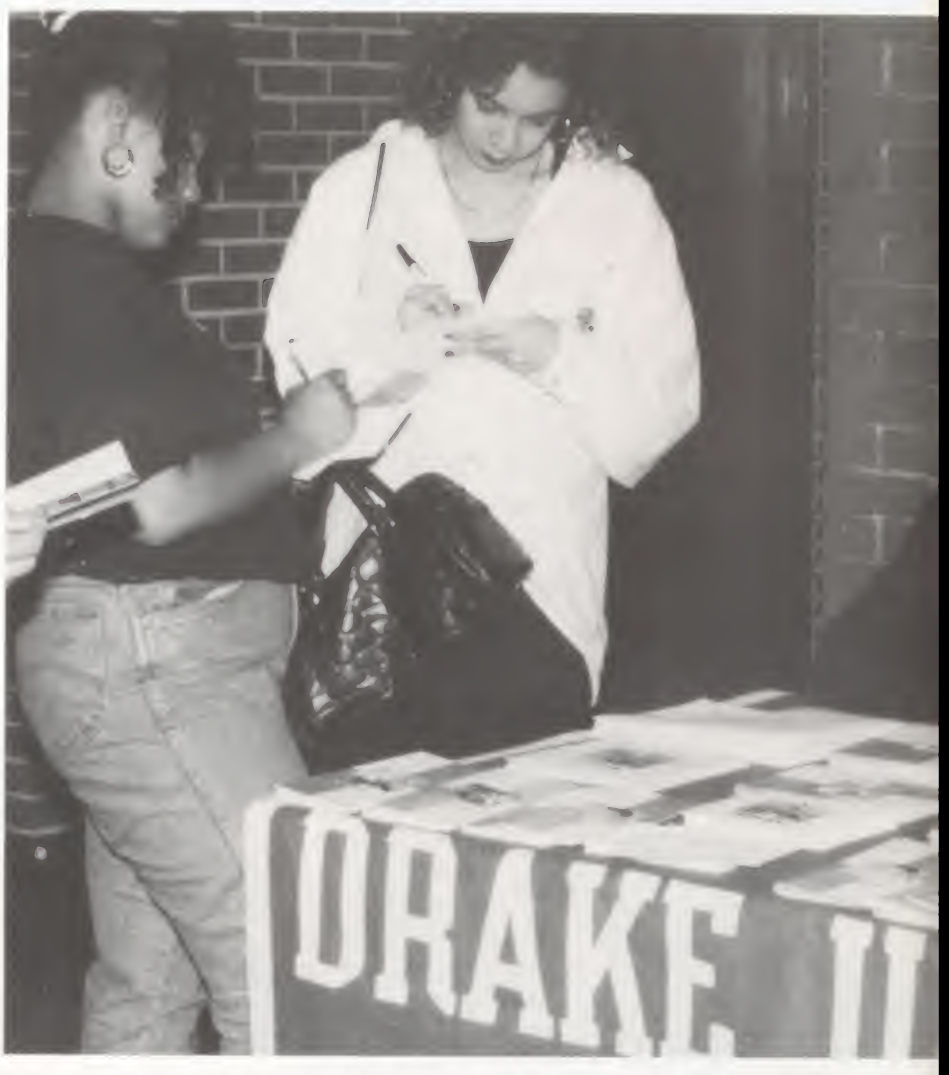

You want to make sure you attend a school that is going to offer you the courses you want. This is why you receive tons of brochures in the mail, so you can get some sort of idea what each school is like.

Not all colleges send out brochures. That is why college fairs are often important to attend. College fairs tend to show and explain a little more of the unique features the school contains and help make it a little easier to decide what schools are best to apply to.

Once you decide on the colleges you wish to apply to the next step is to get the applications and start filling them out. Some colleges require a fee to apply while others are free.

Once you have mailed in your application, all there is left to do is wait for a response. You might find yourself checking the mail hoping just maybe something will be there. When you finally receive a letter, it is one of two things, an acceptance or rejection letter. If it's a rejection letter, it does not mean it's impossible for you to go to college. It just means you need to start looking for another school to apply to. If the letter is a letter of acceptance, then congratulations.

It's back to school- -AGAIN!

Senior Shawn Carmichael discovers a college of interest while thumbing through the college file cabinet in the counseling office.

Junior Albert Winfrey takes time out to complete the complex ACT application form, which is a necessity for most colleges acceptances procedure.

Dial 1-800-PEOPLE!

East Scarlets have a good time no matter where they are and this year was no exception. Junior Angie Irwin said, "I have a good time at school and I really like assemblies."

The best display of Scarlet pride and spirit is an East High assembly. You are surrounded by 1,779 energetic students chanting their favorite cheers and getting pumped up for the big game. No matter what sport, the Scarlets were proud and supportive of their fellow students.

Senior Heather Bauman commented, "I think assemblies are fun. It gives us a chance to support our sports teams for upcoming games and lets us show our school spirit!"

Scarlets also showed a lot of spirit by attending sporting events. Not only did this show support but it was a lot of fun. Senior Scott Donahoe said, "I like going to games because I support East's athletic programs and because I enjoy watching sports."

Senior Brooke Thrasher said, "I have fun at any EHS function whether I'm with my friends or performing with Steppers." During the year students were seen everywhere having a good time with good friends.

Seniors Cory Shelton, Matt Reeves and sophomore Leanae Carter are jumping for joy because they never thought they would see the day when school said KEEP OUT!

With practices starting around 6:30 a.m., many girls only had enough time to put rollers in their hair before running out the door to avoid being late. Senior Kristen Carlstedt shows her enthusiasm for this early morning routine.

Listen Up!

Many different types of music are popular today. Teens no longer listen to one certain style of music. The varieties which teens listen to include heavy metal with groups such as Guns-n-Roses and Metallica. Also there is pop with artists such as Paula Abdul and Mariah Carey. Rap is also popular with groups such as Boyz to Men and Color Me Badd. Another addition to the music industry is country. This type is listened to more now than ever. Artists such as Garth Brooks and Clint Black have sweeped the charts. "I like all different kinds of music, but when I turn my radio on rock is mostly what comes on," says Mandi Kaldenberg, junior.

They say music will determine the future. If this is true, then the future looks prettybright.

Here's what the billboard charts picked as the hottest hits as of March 1:

DEAD!

The Road Not Taken

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood,
And sorry I could not travel both
And be one traveller, long I stood
And looked down one as far as I could
To where it bent in the undergrowth;

Then took the other, as just as fair,
And having perhaps the better claim,
Because it was grassy and wanted wear;
Though as for that the passing there
Has worn them really about the same.

And both that morning equally lay
In leaves no step had trodden black.
Oh, I kept the first for another day!
Yet knowing how way leads on to way,
I doubted if I should ever come back.

I shall be telling this with a sigh
Somewhere ages and ages hence:
Two roads diverged in a wood, and I--
I took the one less travelled by,
And that has made all the difference.

-Robert Frost

The Call of the Future

The future, by its very nature, is undefinable. The events that will take place in the future can only be in our imagination until that moment arrives when the "future" becomes "reality." Anything is possible in the future, from the nightmarish visions of Orwell to the shining optimism found in youthful minds.

Many of us have trouble looking past tomorrow, so we don't even envision our lives five or ten years from today. The question remains, what does the future hold for us? Before we know it, the year 2000 will be upon us. Most of us will be in our mid twenties, out in the "real" world, but what will the "real" world hold for us?

I remember my grade-school teachers telling me that I could have any kind of job I wanted. This truth given to me many years ago still remains true today. We are some of the best educated, most proficient students in the world today. The future is at our command because we are the future. Many people think that their lives are insignificant, but a life is only insignificant if you think it is.

I am not suggesting that life will be all fun and games. Life in the future will be anything but easy. The Baby Boomers will continue to dominate the job market for many years, preventing us from attaining the "best" jobs in the market. Then they will contribute to the collapse the entire Social Security system when they retire.

The degradation of the global environment will continue and drastic changes in our daily living will have to be made before the environment can be saved. Nations around the world will continue to fight wars in the future, until everyone learns that cooperation is superior to competition. These are only a few of the problems we shall face in the future.

The end of the world is certainly not upon us, though. As long as we are able to recognize problems and work for possible solutions, a glimmer of hope remains. Success comes to those who strive for it. Make your life extraordinary; always strive to attain success.

-Michael J. Moyle

Senior board helps year go faster

What organizaOon sells buttons, designs sweatshirts, and strives to make improvements on the graduation ceremony? Senior Board, who else!

This year the board, which consisted of sixteen seniors, planned to eliminate bad conduct which often occurs during commencement.

Jay Elliot, treasurer of the board, said, "This year we have an excellent group of board members. We hope to make graduation the best ever."

Board member Traci Fisher remarked, "The Board worked well together. We came up with some really good ideas quickly."

The Senior Board designed and sold sweatshirts and buttons. Senior Board also helped with the cap and gown measurements. Seniors, after being called alphabetically to the auditorium, paid their fees and were measured.

Senior Penny Gilmore confessed, "I'm glad I'm finally out of here, but I think in a way I'll still miss the fun I had here."

EAST HIGH SCHOOL
CLASS OF 1992

Hey, you guys!
Remember when...

Remember the time when Ryan Hill spilled hydrochloric acid on himself in chemistry and was running around in the bathroom with only his boxers on?

Events like these are what make it all worthwhile. Making friends, going to school, and having a good time.

Some of these events were very embarrassing. Once when Jennifer Gillum was on her way out of the school bus, she tripped and fell breaking her leg just two days before Homecoming. Shondra Kellogg got stuffed in a locker and she couldn't get out because the locker door was shut.

Then others were just plain gross. Looking back to when John Torrey ate a cockroach for money, didn't that just want to make your skin crawl? Or the time when Greg Kephart swallowed a whole tube of Colgate toothpaste.

One disaster Mr. Jotzke remembered was when Kristen Carlstedt worked very hard for the Homecoming half-time and then the rain ruined many planned events.

The memories are in your hearts, where they will remain, making you smile and say, "Hey, remember when..."

Now that you know the place and you know the time where the fun never stops, give us a ring, we'll answer day or night.

UCA

Juniors

The junior class officers were busy this year making the school a better and more enjoyable place. The elected officials were president, Nicole Wagner; vice president, Rod Rasmussen; secretary, Tim Vail; and treasurer, Casey Johnson.

The four are good friends and work well together to attain the goals they set for themselves. "Our main goal is to establish a junior board," said Rasmussen. Vail added, "We want to revolutionize the junior class and get everyone involved." The four officers quickly decided on a class motto. It was "Friends we are and friends we'll be 'cause were the class of '93!" Wagner stated, "I like the motto because we have a very close class."

Up at the crack of dawn

Buzz...Oh no, it's the dreaded sound of the 5 a.m. alarm. This statement was made every day by juniors who had to start their days off early to be at school by 6:30 a.m. Why so early you ask? To practice for the various activities they were involved in, of course! Such activities include cheerleading, colorguard and steppers. Most of their early morning practices were spent getting ready for home games, assemblies and state contests.

Not everyone realized the time that it took to prepare routines well enough to be performed. Also, not everyone was a morning person and the grumpy ones had to be tolerated too in the wee morning hours, but all-in-all everything worked out.

So when you laid in bed at 7:00 a.m. and thought to yourself that it was too early to get up and you kept pushing the old snooze button, just remember your fellow classmates had been at school since 6:30 a.m.

These five colorguard members show that their early morning practices paid off as they energetically perform at a football game at halftime. Left to right are Sheila Barnes, Megan Gogerty, Diane Shellabarger, Liz Baloun*, and* Michelle Griffith*.*

The cheerleaders cheered energetically as they marched down the streets of downtown in the Iowa State Fair Parade in August.

Sophomores

Four enthusiastic girls were elected to represent the sophomore class. Three of them have been in office before. President Amy Knight, vice president Deth Philavanh, and treasurer Tiffany Larson have been elected to their offices for two years in a row. Joining these three was secretary Bobbiann Jordan.

When asked how they felt about receiving their honors, the girls were in agreement. Amy responded, "I was pleased because my class felt that I could do the job two years in a row."

Deth said, "I was really honored."

For Bobbiann, this was her first year in a class office. She commented, "At first I was shocked but then I was happy that my classmates chose me to do the job."

All four girls were dedicated and hard-working when it came to school. What did these girls like to do in their free time? Deth liked to bake cookies and brownies. Amy and Bobbiann liked to hang out with their friends, and Tiffany stated,"I like to comb my hair!"

Scarlet dedication was visible everywhere during the Homecoming time of year. The Pep "E" Club held their annual spirit link sale to prove just what grade level had the most spirit. Coming in second wasn't all too bad for the sophomore class.

Play it again, Sam

One of the major aspects of a teenager's life is music. No matter what the type, whether it be rock or rap, music still has a tremendous influence. Music can decide who your friends might be or even the path you will take in life. Sophomore Heather Carnahan commented on her view of music,"I really enjoy listening to music. It is fun and it helps me to relax. Most of the time I listen to music after school while doing my homework. Music can help my homework seem less boring."

Many sophomores interviewed had different views on the type of music that people should listen to. Some students said they liked Color Me Badd and others, Metallica, but one aspect always remains the same - - they usually do their homework while listening to music. "I think that music is basically a necessity to doing homework. It helps relieve the monotony of my school subjects," said sophomore Charity Cardines.

Sophomore Kerry Caldwell said she enjoys listening to music because it's "something to do when you're bored."

Sophomore Heather Carnahan busys herself by looking for a tape that she can listen to while doing her homework. This is a common situation for all students.

Initiation for the Steppers included several embarrassing things for sophomores Michelle Primm, Bobbi Ann Jordan, and senior Becky Pollard.

Hazing: Fun for all

Initiating freshmen has always been considered a tradition at high schools and colleges across the nation. However, about one week into the school year, the advisers give the upperclassmen a lecture on "hazing." Consequently, if the seniors, juniors, or sophomores initiate anyone, they have to be very careful not to get caught.

There are lots of things that the upperclassmen do to initiate the fresh-men. One delightful item is the ever popular selling of elevator passes. Another thing the upperclassmen do is to throw freshmen in one of the many trash cans in school.

Even though initiation is not allowed for the students, it is allowed for certain organizations such as freshman cheerleaders and freshman football. Another of the groups that initiates its incoming members is Steppers. Two freshman initiates were Sarah Beardsley and Mindy Ficek. The Stepper initiation included wearing what Sarah termed as "Brady Bunch clothes from the DAV" as well as serenading a frat house.

So beware incoming freshman, you may be next!

Freshman fever!

Many times people wrongly consider freshmen to be passive and generally uninvolved. This has become increasingly incorrect as in recent years freshman involvement in clubs and sports has risen sharply.

People, generally upperclassmen, failed to realize that freshmen were very much a part of school spirit. They participated as cheerleaders, Steppers and Colorguard members and played a major part in the Pep "E" Club. In some instances, they were board members.

Freshman Lindsay Elliot commented, "I enjoy helping get the student body involved through Pep 'E' Club. Something that really blew my mind was the enthusiasm with the spirit links during Homecoming week."

Getting involved is no problem for freshman Andi Gerstenberger. She looks picture perfect as she practices for State competition in December.

Achievement is key to academic skills

It was the fourth year at East for Principal Jerry Stilwell and two vice-principals, Mr. Gary Jotzke and Mr. Mike Zelenovich. These three administrators, along with vice-principal Mrs. Fae Ramsey worked diligently all year and put together another great year for East.

Mr. Stilwell, a Valley High Stchool graduate in 1957, came to East after 28 years of teaching, 26 of which were in the Des Moines district. He attended college at Iowa State Teachers' College and then went on to do graduate work at Drake University.

Mr. Stilwell had his first position as principal in 1981 at McCombs Middle School. In 1984, he became principal at Harding Middle School, before becoming principal for East in 1988.

Scrub and grub: key ingredients in the chemistry of East

The students and staff take a lot of pride in their school, especially its cleanliness. However, this pride would not exist if it wasn't for the strenuous effort and dedication of the custodial staff.

Sweeping and mopping the floors is a routine job to them, and it is one that affects the appearance of the halls and reflects on the school. Students also realize the importance of the custodians, for who would be there when a locker is jammed if there were no custodians?

The custodial staff consists of a night crew and day crew. Together they do a great job in keeping the school clean. When asked about the status of today's students compared to years past, Mr. Bob Howe, building manager, commented, "The students this year are a lot better than in the past in regards to respecting the cleanliness of their school."

However, not only do the students help make the custodians' job easier, but so does the help of Mr. Mike Anousis and Mrs. Elaine Anousis. They contribute to the effort by picking up trash around the school and campus.

A day would not be complete without seeing Mr. and Mrs. Anousis contributing to the effort of a clean campus and school. They seem to be well respected in the students' eyes. Senior Chris Eichhorn commented, "I think they do East High good in cleaning up the environment around school."

Lunch time is just about the favorite time of the day for most students, and also for the cafeteria staff. According to Mrs. Dixie Heimbaugh, cafeteria clerk, "The best part of the day is when the students come through the lunch line." This is a time when the staff, headed by manager Marlene Minear, exhibits their exceptional qualities in feeding all the hungry faces.

The staff takes their job very seriously and shows great dedication in feeding the students and staff. Early in the morning a few from the staff would sell things like donuts and milk to early morning ravenous students. In all lunch can be summed up by the words of junior Brad Sams, "It is a time to appreciate the great service our lunch ladies give us."

Never on hold with sports!

For a good time you can always call 1-800-Scarlet athletics. There is no need to worry about support because you can always dial East High. Scarlet pride never takes second to anybody. Nobody gives up at East High School because everybody is in it till the end.

There are many memories you can call upon throughout 1991. For example, the baseball team took second in the state tournament. The boys cross country team qualified for the state meet for the fourth consecutive year. The football team had some impressive victories against North and Roosevelt. The girls softball team won the Metro crown also for the fourth consecutive year. Senior Andi Brown qualified for the state swim meet for the fourth consecutive year. Andi placed ninth in the 100 yard breaststroke.

Senior Bee Thongsoum commented, "I believe East has one of the best athletic programs in the state. I think our coaches really care about making the athlete achieve his or her goals."

You can't only talk about the participants, but also the enthusiastic fans. East leads the pack when it comes to fan support. It is a great sight to see when you look up in the stands and you see the mighty red and black.

Senior Jeremy Mendenhall said, "I honestly believe East High has the best fan support. Being a varsity wrestler it helps to hear the crowd scream as I try to pin my opponent."

So there is never a need to worry, because the power of Scarlet athletics will never leave you on hold.

Senior Andi Brown springs into the water on a treacherous journey to the other side of the pool. Andi has been a state qualifier for the last four years.

After defeating Creston 7-4 the enthusiastic Scarlets mob each other in the middle of the field. Celebration was a common sight for the baseball team. The mighty Scarlet baseball team lived a dream, while taking second in the state tournament.

Senior Rick Jones soars in the air to gracefully score two points in the Boys Jamboree at Veterans Memorial Auditorium. The Scarlets beat the Ankeny Hawks 38-35 in sixteen minutes of action.

Scarlets live a dream season

The 1991 baseball season could be summed up in two words, absolutely spectacular. The Scarlets came off the season with a record of 32-8. Great strength and determination were displayed throughout the whole season.

Five key players were selected to the All-State Baseball Team. Alumnus Tom Shelton was selected to the Elite Team. Alumni Chad Erickson, Chad McDonald, Paul Sams, and senior Jason Hall were all chosen to be on the First Team.

"I believe we accomplished a lot more than we thought we would. I thought to be in the state championship was definitely unreachable, but continoius hard work paid off," said Head Coach Ric Powell. "It was great disappointment to me that we weren't rated after beating Dowling 2-1 and overtaking Ames in a double-header. We weren't actually rated until we lost to Dowling."

"I believe we accomplished a lot more than we thought we would. I thought to be in the state championship was definitely unreachable, but continuous hard work paid off," said Head Coach Ric Powell.

The Scarlets traveled a long path to the state tournament. In a district game East defeated the Dowling Maroons 5-3, this was considered one of the highpoints of the season. Next, the Scarlets beat Creston 7-4, highlighted by a solo homerun by Chad McDonald. This game advanced them to the state tournament to take on Cedar Rapids Jefferson.

The key points of the game were a homerun by junior Rusty Anderson and a well-pitched game by senior Jason Hall. Then alumnus Cecil Aswegan came into the seventh inning and struck out the side. Cecil pitched near-perfectly throughout districts and through the state tournament. Finally, the Scarlets dream was cut short when they were defeated by Waterloo West 5-3.

Senior Scott Littel, who pitched the championship game, commented, "I was probably the happiest person on earth to be pitching in the state tournament. I was extremely nervous, yet I was unbelievably excited. I feel the team reached every single goal we had set."

"I feel we lost a lot of talent, but hopefully we can try to fill those holes," said junior Rusty Anderson about next year's team.

Girls' win fourth straight Metro crown

The varsity softball team had a successful season on its way to a fourth consecutive Metro conference championship. The team finished 13-1 in the conference and 30-4 overall. Close games were not a rarity during the season; 17 games were decided by three runs or less. That shows the strength of the team in losing only four games during the course of the season. "Beating Dowling 2-1 in front of all those people at sectionals was a great feeling and a great game," commented junior Ashley Calhoun on her most memorable highlight of the season.

Alumna Shelly Milligan had another tremendous season finishing with a 25-3 record and was selected as a first team all-stater. Senior Missy Hickman was selected as a fourth team all-stater while playing second base all season and committing only six errors, and batting a whopping .402. "Considering how young we were, the team did a great job. We worked and played hard together and got along really well. We accomplished most of our goals and next year we have a good chance of going to state," said Missy Hickman on the season and future of the team. Shelly and Missy along with alumna Dawn Fisher were selected to the Central Iowa All District team. Shelly and Dawn were on the first team and Missy on the second. Special mention All-State honors were received by senior Autumn Brown, and juniors Shannon Carlson and Ashley Calhoun.

"Beating Dowling 2-1 in Front of all those people at sectionals was a great feeling and a great game," commented junior Ashley Calhoun.

The freshman baseball team used a great team batting average and a lot of guts to excel this past season. The team was in contention for most of its last six games to finish the season with a 12-8 record. "We improved throughout the season after a slow start and we finished with a very respectable record," commented sophomore Scott Hart.

"We improved throughout the season after a slow start and we finished with a very respectable record," commented Scott Hart.

The team had a combined batting average of .347 with six players hitting over .400. Sophomore Ronny Cole led the team with a .488 average. One of the many bright spots of the season was when the team hit four homeruns and beat Hoover 24-0. The team defeated every Metro team at least once except Ames. Five eighth graders plan to return next year to play on the freshman team again.

The sophomore baseball team had a good season on their way to a 17-9 record. The team started the season 4-0 and finished winning six of its last seven games. "We had a good season and finished with a very respectable record. We improved quite a bit and next year should be just as promising," commented junior Mike Winget. Hard work is just one aspect of the game that the team used to its advantage.

Head Coach Jim McNabb said, "We had a tremendous season and these kids should be successful at the varsity level."

JV, Frosh show toughness

The freshman softball team showed a lot of potential and improvement on their way to an outstanding season. They didn't have one outstanding player that carried them but they had many above average players with a lot of ability.

Sophomore Lori Lethcoe commented on the year by saying, "We had a strong season and showed constant improvement. We have a lot of potential which should help us in years to come."

The junior varsity softball team was one of the youngest teams in the 4 or 5 years Head Coach Mark Tiby has been coaching. They finished the season with an 11-8-2 record, but weren't as competitive as years before, according to Coach Tiby. Improvement was the key to a successful season and a lot of it was evident, especially in the last two weeks of the season when all the games were close and competitive.

Sophomore Jeri Riley pitched quite a few games for the team this season. Junior Shannon Carlson and senior Autumn Brown also pitched for the J.V. team. Missy Brown led the team in hitting the whole season with her strong swing. Coach Tiby sees a good future for these girls and commented that, "Our tradition of strong softball continued in 91' with a lot of promise from one of the youngest J.V. teams in the Metro."

Golf teams swing into action

The boys' golf team had a productive season. The team possessed a lot of young players, which will help them in the future. The team posed some great victories against Lincoln and Hoover.

Senior Jay Elliott commented, "I believe we had a successful season. I feel the team really stuck together. Next year the team should do well due to all of the young talent that we had."

The girls' golf team had a superb season considerimg the number of team members they had to deal with. They were led by alumna Peggy Quijano. The girls' had their sole victory against North with a score of 266 to 277.

Senior Jay Elliott commented, " I believe we had a successful season. I feel the team really stuck together. Next year the team should do well due to all of the young talent."

Senior Carrie Hemingson said, "I feel the girls hung in there extremely well throughout the whole season. I believe we each got better individually as the season progressed.

Runners go to State for 4th straight year

The boys' cross country team had one of its best seasons ever. With five first place wins and the division title, the Scarlets earned their way to their fourth state meet in four years. The team took tenth in the state tournament.

The team had nine returning letter-winners. Coach Don Graves commented,"Things have just gotten better every year . This was an excellent year for the team. I think the kids lived up to the reputation of the school."

The Scarlets won the first divisional title for the school in the new CIMC conference. "We had an excellent season and I hope we do well at state," said sophomore Brian Bickel. "All of our runners did very well this year," said junior Chad Beason. Senior Josh Hanson was the captain for the team.

With experience, hard work and dedication the boys strove to to be the best, and they succeeded.

The Girl's Cross Country team had a season of learning and togetherness. There were seven runners on the team which was more than past seasons.

Eventhough the team did not do as well as they expected, they still practiced very hard, and put in many hours of time and dedication.

The team was lead by Senior Bonnie Beaver who was the captain. The team will have many runners returning next year and hopes to do well.

Team ignites cheers and thrills for fans

The varsity football team gave fans many things to cheer about this season. Although the Scarlets only won three games, they played right down to the last minute in seven out of nine games.

The season started off with two very tough opponents, Dowling and Ankeny. Unfortunately, the Scarlets were unable to walk away with a victory in either game. The Scarlets fell just short to the hands of highly rated Dowling 23-14.

The schedule didn't get any easier as the Scarlets next faced a traditional powerhouse in football, Ankeny. Unfortunately, the team fell again just shy of a victory. Ankeny walked away with it 17-14. However, the loss was nothing to be disappointed about. "It was a solid effort by the players," commented coach Bill Carlson.

Lincoln was the next opponent for the Scarlets, but the team just couldn't seem to get things rolling as time became a costly factor again. The team was defeated 17-13 in what coach Carlson blamed on "costly mistakes and inconsistency."

However, those factors seemed to diminish as the Scarlets broke into a three-game winning streak against Hoover, Roosevelt, and North.

The victory over Hoover was the first in thirteen games for the team. East beat the Huskies 21-14. They then managed to get the offense rolling with a big win against Roosevelt. The Scarlets racked up the points on the board and cruised to a 35-7 victory. East High fans had a lot to cheer about at the Homecoming game where East beat North 19-8 on a very wet, damp October night.

Mason City ended the three-game winning streak by defeating the Scarlets 28-7. Coach Carlson commented, "Mason City played about the best game of their season. Unfortunately, it had to be against us." The Scarlets just couldn't seem to get things going after turning the ball over three times in the first half. Southeast Polk won a hard-fought battle with the Scarlets 7-3. Indianola then ended the Scarlet's season by defeating them 49-7.

Coach Carlson summed up the season by saying, "There was no great individual talent on the team. Rather, the overall playing efforts of the kids reflected the team's talent."

Frosh and sophs gain experience and wins

The freshman and sophomore Scarlets were teams of contrasts and similarities. Even though the freshmen did not win, they gained much in the way of experience. The sophomores already had the experience, they just needed the wins.

The sophomore team and their coach, John Wahling, lost the first three games of the season, but his a winning streak in the fourth game that didn't stop.

> "Once we started winning, we got pumped up more," said Tyson Taylor.

The freshmen worked just as hard. Along with the coaches yelling at the players, many of their fathers were on the sidelines with everyone else cheering on sons and other fathers' sons.

The sophomores had a tremendous winning season and the freshman gained the experience that they will need in the seasons to come. Sophomore Tyson Taylor says, "Once we started winning, we were getting pumped up more."

Swimmers and divers find victory

The men's swim team had lacked the members needed to successfully compete against other teams in the conference during the past several years, not having won a meet since December 8, 1988. On January 9, 1992, that losing streak was shattered with a 96-78 victory over North. Senior Nathan Ellis noted, "All our hard work and dedication has finally paid off."

The success was the result of the addition of several new swimmers and the strength of the experienced swimmers. Captains Michael Moyle, Nathan Ellis, and Jason Chapman led the team of seniors Ray Bolinger, Ed Cooper, and Scott Williams; junior Don Cady; sophomores Gene Baloun and Scott Ludwig; and freshmen Nick Medina and Greg Moyle to victory. The coach was Mark Hurley, and the team manager was Erin Wedman.

Freshman Greg Moyle was partly responsible for the success of the team. In addition to winning several first places, he was a part of the relay team with Michael Moyle, Donald Cady, and Nick Medina that broke the school record in the 200 yard freestyle relay. Greg commented that, "I am pleased with my progress and the progress of the team. I am looking to continued success in the future."

Unfortunately, the team continues to lack adequate numbers to compete effectively. Seniors comprise nearly half the team, foreshadowing a bleak future for the swimming program.

Coach Mark Hurley finds himself going for a swim. After the victory over North, the team decided the coach could use some practice.

Girls' varsity swimming

Once again, the Scarlets were on the war path. Mr. Ken Gaeth's swimmers ended the season with a winning record of 5 wins and 4 losses. One major win occurred at the Southeast Polk meet. Senior Andi Brown claimed the coaches had a huge part in the win. "Even after we had a disqualification in the first relay, Mr. Gaeth never lost hope. He was running around like a mad man, screaming and yelling. They (the coaches) really wanted us to win."

Junior Johnanna Day added,"We tried our hardest. These are the most meets we've won since I've been at East."

Despite losing two great swimmers in seniors Andi and Sarah Brown, Gaeth thinks next year's team will be prosperous. "We've got a lot of good eighth graders coming from the Jr. High programs. We should be just as strong as this year," he stated.

"We all supported each other well. We were a small team and encouragement was important," said junior Nikki Price.

Overall, the swim team had tremendous spirit. "We all supported each other well. We are a small team and encouragement is important," commented Nikki Price. Johnanna Day said, "I think we had a terrific season. It wouldn't have been possible without such a close team."

Varsity girls spike through promising season

With team spirit and fire in their eyes, the Scarlet girls tried their best and ended the season well.

Freshman Nikki Hanson stated, "We had a really good season, but it could have been better." With a 12-22-5 record, the girls gave it their best and beat many rivals including Lincoln in a divisional game and Southeast Polk in a conference game. "The best game had to be against Southeast Polk. We were all fired up to beat them and we did just that," stated junior Kris Klukas. Although the team worked hard, there was also room for improvement due to the fact that the team lost two top seniors, Janelle Dupree and Rachele Clark. Given most honorable mention by their teammates were senior Bee Thongsoum and junior Shannon Carlson. Next year, the team will have four returning starters.

JV/ Freshmen spike with spirit

The JV volleyball season proved to be fun, as well as challenging for all who played. Extensive practices, bruises, excitement and frustration seem to go hand in hand when you are part of such a demanding sport.

"The season went well for having fun and enjoying volleyball. We, as a team, worked hard even though our record did not show it," commented junior Tricia Nelson.

Team spirit contributed to the fun the team had throughout the year. Their spirit also played an important role in maintaining their positive attitude and determination. "Team spirit makes it possible for the team to make outstanding comebacks. The people who are not on the court are just as important as the others. If there is no spirit on the bench the players on the court will slow down, but if the spirit is high, then the players on the court are full of fire," said Tricia Nelson.

Enthusiasm and teamwork are definitely the words to describe the freshman volleyball team.

Teamwork was the driving force behind their advancement, and improvement. "We had a lot of spirit and we rooted for each other . We did not win that many matches, but we put up some good fights," said freshman Kim Murphy.

The freshmen gained an enormous amount of experience and knowledge. They are all looking forward to putting all of their experience to use in coming years.

Scarlets struggle through season

After a disappointing season full of injuries and sicknesses, the Scarlets struggled to hold a Metro record of 4-8.

Senior Bee Thongsoum was upset about the way her senior year went. "We had our ups and downs. Plus there were many of unwanted losses like North and Hoover." Coach Mark Tiby said, "Our free throw shooting was at an all time low." Junior Tasha Brown added, "Sometimes we just didn't work together as a team."

"We had our ups and downs," commented senior Bee Thongsoum.

By the end of the season, the Scarlets began to improve. They beat Ankeny after tying them at the Jamboree. Southeast Polk was defeated twice, the second time by a last second shot by Bee Thongsoum. Plus the Scarlets had their first blowout by "roughing up the Roughriders" by a score of 70-34. Coach Tiby's girls kept Lincoln, a ranked team with an average of 90 points a game, down to less than 65. They also tied the turnover record of five.

The Scarlets look very prosperous for next year's season. "We have lots of younger players with varsity experience," commented Tasha Brown. Coach Tiby added, "If the girls don't improve, we'll be in the same predicament as we are now. We must handle the ball better, improve on shooting, and get off on the right foot."

Scarlet boy's basketball gained a lot of success this season. Although they didn't win every game, they went out everyday to work hard and try to improve as a team. They had many games that were within their grasp and had a chance to win at the end, but just couldn't pull it out.

"We had our ups and downs, but we never quit working as a team. I felt we had a lot of confidence going into district play," commented senior Jay Elliott.

TheScarlets were led by senior cartains Shawn Carmichael and Josh Hanson, and junior Trent Ainsworth. Shawn was one of the leading scorers in the Central Iowa Metropolitan Conference and the state. Shawn led the team in scoring, Josh led the team in assists and Trent led the team in rebounding.

"Our season was better than years before. We worked hard every practice and we had a lot of bad breaks, but put them behind us and continued to strive for excellence," commented Shawn Carmichael. Jay Elliott, junior Mike Pauscher, sophomore Wes Anderson and senior Matt Dierking shared starting roles also. The bench play of the team contributed to their success also. "The team played well all season except for maybe two games. They were competitive with every team and their record didn't show the improvement and many close games they lost," commented Head Coach Chuck Sutherland.

"The team played well all season, except for maybe two games. They were competitive with every team and their record didn't show the improvement and many close games they lost," commented Head Coach Chuck Sutherland.

They competed in a new conference this year and were competitive. They won more games this year than they have in the last three years combined. "I felt the new conference gave us a lot of competition. We made new rivalries and continued the old ones. Our season went well even though we had some tough breaks," commented Trent Ainsworth.

Sophomore hoop-meisters cold chillin' some victories

The sophomore boys basketball team had a season full of achievements and disappointments. Two of the team's best players, B.J. Stanton and Wes Anderson, were called up to the varsity level and the team tried to regroup and pull off a good season.

"We could have done a lot better," said sophomore Sam Woods. "We hustled the first part of the season but we needed to work harder towards the end." Although the team's record of 6-13 might not show it, the team had its share of memorable moments. The team came out with a win by one point against Hoover in the last seconds of the game. Woods had his high game of 14 points during that game.

"I remember when we beat Indianola by a basket in overtime," commented sophomore J.J. Williams.

"I think we need to work on our skills more for next year," stated Williams. Woods added, "If we work hard over the summer we will be ready for varsity next year."

Sophomore Jeff Kimball leaps towards the hoop to make the layup which helped lead the team to a victory over North.

Scarlet girls play hard to score some major hoops

The sophomore girls basketball team played hard yet came up with an average season. The team of twelve finished the season with a 10-10 record.

"We did pretty good during the beginning of the season, but towards the end we did worse," said sophomore Deth Philavahn. At one point during the season the team had won 10 of its 14 games. However, they finished the season losing its last 6 games.

A highlight of the season was when the team earned an impressive victory over Indianola by three points. "I remember the game against Indianola well because we got into a fight with the other team," commented sophomore Carrie Anderson. This was unusual for the team, which usually had good sportsmanship.

The team is looking forward to next year when they hope to improve their record and lead the varsity team to an impressive season. Philavahn added, "If we stick together as a team we can accomplish anything."

Great accomplishments achieved by newcomers

Freshmen boys basketball overcame every obstacle placed in their way. The new Scarlets improved greatly throughout the season. Several students had played at their middle schools and the team of twenty-one players was very well-balanced.

The freshmen boys proved to be good shooters, making fifty-eight three point shots during the season. In an exciting game against Hoover, the freshmen boys triumphed over their opponents by three points.

At their tournament in Polk County they finished third in their division.

"We had a great bunch of kids," commented coach Jay Fisher. "Our goals were to improve everyday, to have fun and improve as a team. I think we reached those goals."

When asked about his teammates, freshmen James Lee stated, "My teammates became my brothers, we became one big family." He also said, "We had a tough season this year. All of us are looking forward to next year."

Wrestlers post best mark in school history

The East High wrestlers put together a season that could not be matched by any other in its history. Their final record was 11-3, the most wins by any wrestling team ever. However, even this record is misleading because the team was a few matches from being 14-0. The Scarlets suffered close losses to Carlisle, Southeast Polk, and Indianola.

The Scarlets were led by a number of seniors which provided a lot of depth and experience in the lineup. As a result, six wrestlers qualified for the State Tournament at Veterans Auditorium. This was the most since since 1961. They were Jeff Gillum (103), Jeremy Mendenhall (112), Bobby Anderson (119), Bill Hornung (152), Joe Thompson (160), and Shane Wheeldon (171).

The Scarlets put together an impressive string of victories at the end of the season. After Indianola they did not lose another dual meet and convincingly defeated the rest of their opponents. This included a first place finish in the Roosevelt Invitational where they finished the day 5-0.

"It was an honor and privilege to coach this group of young men," commented Coach Rourke. "It turned out to be the greatest team in the history of East High Wrestling."

Scarlets excel at State meets

The boy's track team showed a lot of talent and improvement during the past season. The team was led by two strong relay teams. The 4 x 800 team, consisting of alumnus Matt Maxwell, senior Josh Hanson and juniors Chad Beason and Rick Ramirez, qualified for the State Meet and finished fifth. The 4 x 100 team consisted of alumni Les Cason and Dennis Sullivan, and seniors Truman McCurn and Joe Thompson. They qualified for both the State Meet and the Drake Relays. Other State qualifiers were Josh Hanson in the 800 meter run, Rick Ramirez in the 3200 meter run and the 1600 medley relay team made up of Les Cason, Matt Maxwell, Josh Hanson and Joe Thompson. Josh Hanson was the only runner to qualify for three events at the State Meet. Josh finished fifth in the 800 meter run. Qualifiers at the Drake Relays were Rick Ramirez in the 3200 meter run and the 4 x 200 relay team. " It was a great feeling running in front of thousands of people at Drake Stadium. Winning our heat and finishing fifth in the 4 x 800 meter relay was the greatest thrill of the season," said Rick Ramirez.

"It was a great feeling running in front of thousands of people at Drake Stadium...," said junior Rick Ramirez.

This season the girls track team had their first State qualifier in three years. Junior LaTasha Brown qualified in the 400 meter dash and finished eighth in the long jump. "It was a big thrill because it was my first year at State. Next year we should have a better team with more experience which should bring more State qualifiers," remarked LaTasha Brown. Head Coach Mark Tiby was very pleased with LaTasha's performance and commented, "LaTasha is jumping farther as a sophomore than two other State Champions who jumped for East when they were sophomores."

The team was quite young and should return next year a lot stronger and more experienced. " The team worked hard everyday at practice and improved each meet. Next season should be a good one," remarked junior Lisa Flynn.

Courage displayed on East courts

The 1991 boys' tennis showed great courage and dedication throughout the whole season. They had great victories over Urbandale and North. In districts, East took third place. The team missed going to sub-state by one point.

The team's eight returning lettermen were led by captains Phone Lovan and Matt Dunfee.

Junior Brandon Lindsey said, "The record was not that impressive, but the whole team stuck together. I believe our third showing in districts can be changed to first."

"Next year with all the upperclassmen and all the experience that was gained, I feel we can do extremely better," commented junior Eric LaRosse.

Head Coach Joyce Smith commented, "The girls improved as the season progressed. I feel tennis is one of the hardest games to master, but the girls seemed to progress quickly."

Scarlets exhibit positive signs

The soccer team showed a lot of improvement during the year although their record didn't show it. They were competitive in most of their games and should be even more competitive next year in the new Central Iowa Metropolitan Conference. The highlight of the season to many of the players was beating Dowling 1-0. Senior Chris Jones commented, "Beating Dowling 1-0 was the best moment of the season. I scored the only goal and it was a great feeling finally beating them." Team captains for the team were alumni Eric Auxier, John Duden, Minivahn Baccam and Curt Schactner. "We had a small and young team and when they make a committment they should see more success in the next two or three years," said Head Coach Greg Holland.

For a good time ... get involved!

The purpose of organizing various groups is to enable students to put their interests and talents to good use. In order to take school one step beyond homework, teachers, and the same everyday routine they become involved.

Active groups to fit every students interests include the Pep "E" club, students who pep up the crowd at assemblies and supports our various teams; Student Government, students who are in charge of the Homecoming week and dance; Colorguard, performers of flag routines at halftimes for football and basketball games; Dew Crew, students against substance abuse who serve as role models to students at elementary and middle schools, and the list goes on and on.

There are endless good times going on in life at East. The involvement of committed students, make many school functions such as school dances, plays, and post-prom parties possible.

Not only do the students have fun while being involved, but they also are given the experience to display leadership skills, and responsibility. Anyone who likes to have a good time, who is dedicated enough to carry-out the responsibilities faced to have a successful organization, is the person who is likely to find the right club for them. Afterall there are over 40 clubs and organizations to choose from.

Without the leadership we have at East it would be impossible for our extracurricular activities to come about. Although people gripe about the same people always being in every organization and filling the leadership positions, they are the ones who enjoy being involved and who sacrifice their free-time to make good times happen. Instead of being negative and complaining about things that go on and the decisions that are made, make a change and become involved!

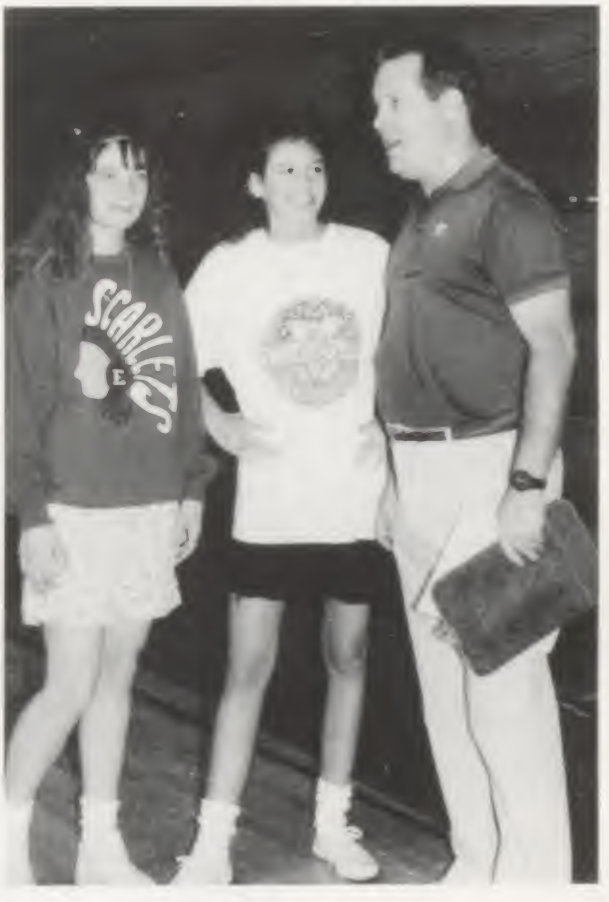

Students eager to be involved display their involvement and organization by wearing sweatshirts and t-shirts that advertise the club they belong to, as many members may be noticed in the hallways walking together cheerfully.

Marching down the streets of downtown Des Moines, the Steppers stepped in time as they represented East at the Iowa State Fair parade.

Varsity cheerleaders climb to new heights

Arriving at school at seven o' clock every morning to jump, yell and flip doesn't sound very appealing to most teenagers, but the fifteen members if the varsity cheerleading squad knew that that was exactly what they needed to do to prepare for the year ahead.

Varsity tryouts were held last March during which 42 girls performed two cheers, a chant and three jumps in order to compete for a spot on the fifteen member squad. "We reduced the size of the squad from 18 to 15 to make it a little easier for the captain to manage," said sponsor Ned Rasmussen.

"Tryouts were stressful, but making varsity was really exciting," said junior Jenny Enfield. "Now I would have my chance to cheer at assemblies."

The girls began to practice the week after school was dismissed arriving each day at seven a.m. to teach the incoming freshmen and to rehearse for camp. "It was hard to get up that early in the summer, but when we got to camp we realized that our work had really paid off," said junior Nicole Wagner.

"We decided to try a new camp this year," said junior Ashley Calhoun. "We went to the Universal Cheerleading Association camp at Iowa State in July." A new camp certainly didn't hinder the girls' spirits. By the end of the four day camp the squad, under the direction of captain Missy Crouse and co-captains Kari Elliott and Angie Herrington, received first place trophies for their cheer and pom routines, a second place trophy for their sideline chant and a plaque awarded to them by their fellow squads for their enthusiasm, spirit and abilities.

Seniors Missy Charron, Missy Crouse, Kari Elliott and Angie Herrington were also given the honor of being chosen as All-American cheerleaders which gave them the opportunity to participate in cheerleading activities all over the world.

"Winning our trophies at camp was the most emotional experience I've ever had," said Wagner. "We finally got the recognition that we deserved."

Upon return from camp the girls went to work raising money to purchase new uniforms. "We felt that after our hard work at camp we deserved a new look," said Enfield.

"We all worked very hard selling raffle tickets and having car washes. A big thanks goes out to all of our supporters," said senior Angie Herrington.

The squad then began to prepare for the season ahead. Practice continued until the time of the football jamboree and resumed once school had begun. "We knew that our squad was special because of our ability to finally pull together as a team," said Enfield. Jamboree was our first performance in front of the Scarlet crowd, so we knew that we had to be at our best."

One of the highlights of the football season for the senior cheerleaders was cheering at a winning football game—an experience which they had never had until this year. "We had confidence in them all year," said Herrington. Senior Kristen Carlstedt replied, "It was an experience that we will never forget."

The varsity cheerleaders had an exciting year that will never be forgotten. "We are a close group that really enjoys being together," said Rasmussen. "These girls have worked really hard and I am glad that they were rewarded." Their successes, failures and determination to be the best brought them together as a family.

"The good times we had together will never be forgotten," said Calhoun. "I hope that next year will be just as great!"

The varsity cheerleaders help to pump up the football team as they hold a banner for the players to run through. This was a popular activity for the players as well as the cheerleaders before a big game.

Members of the varsity squad smile proudly as they display their heel stretch mount for the crowd. The girls reached new heights after attending the Universal Cheerleading Association camp where they learned to execute a variety of new mounts and partner stunts.

Enthusiasm is key for new freshmen cheerleaders

The freshman cheerleading squad started off their first year of high school with great spirit. For starters, they recieved new uniforms and then they cheered the freshmen team on as they played their first games.

Most of all cooperation and team work was the key to the squad's excellence. Lindsey Elliott explains, "Our squad worked well together and cooperated great as a team."

Starting high school can be difficult, but starting as a cheerleader can make it much easier. "Cheerleading has made my freshman year more fun because all of the activities we cheered for and it is the best to be in," stated Lindsey Cochran.

Sponser, Ned Rasmussen states,"Each member is commited to the excellence of their squad. Their team unity is their strength." This proved these cheerleaders started off on the right foot.

Refreshing changes make for great sophomore squad

Many changes were made this year for the sophomore squad. They went to a new summer camp at I.S.U. where they received a trophy and ten blue ribbons. They also placed first in overall competition.

They also received new uniforms. "The uniforms are a great improvement from last year and helped our squad look more professional," stated Charity Reeves. Even though some changes were made, difficult routines, long practice and grueling tryouts were just as challenging as before. Marci Kauzlarich expressed "Cheerleading was a success at camp and the rest of the year was fun, but it wasn't easy."

Ned Rasmussen stated, "Many added responsibilities were given to the sophomore squad such as wrestling in rotation with girl's and boy's basketball." This meant the sophomore cheerleaders had the potential toward excellence and achieved it.

Twirling towards success

Color Guard twirled into the season with focus and dedication. The squad was led by senior Captain Diane Shellabarger, senior Flag Captain Carrie Hemmingson, senior Rifle Captain Sheila Barnes, junior Secretary Megan Gogerty and junior Treasurer Michelle Griffith.

The summer is where the hard work and preparation began. Colorguard practiced every morning at 6:30, and they attended the Marching Auxilaries Camp at Wartburg College. During camp the squad received the "Most Spirited Award" and "Outstanding Home Routine."

"Camp helped the new girls get used to being judged," replied Shellabarger, "and we got a feel for what the judges were looking for."

As the Colorguard looked forward to state, the officers choreographed their routine. This was the first year the officers choreographed everything themselves.

By adding new moves and a touch of pizazz, their flag routine was placed second. Their light show received first rating in their division, and overall they ranked second in state. Although the squad was ranked second overall, three members took another step for their talented skills.

"I got to make up my own routine," stated junior Cadry Nelson, "and received a trophy for it." Nelson was placed first in the Individuals Competition. Along with her, junior Michelle Griffith was ranked second, and senior Carrie Hemmingson was third.

Together the Colorguard progressed as a squad. "I want to remember everything— my friends, the competitions, the practices, the bus trips, the over-nighters, the parties, and especially the self discipline," commented Shellabarger.

A new element adds to the field. Six members from the squad concentrate as they perform an elaborate routine with their rifles.

Success in dancing pays off for Steppers

The Stepper season started off early in the summer with morning practices every weekday at 7:30 a.m. The method to all of their practices was to perform their home routine for camp. Camp was held the second week of July at Buena Vista College in Storm Lake, Iowa. Most of the dances that were performed this year were taught by the "Just For Kix" dance and pom instructors.

State was held in Cedar Rapids, Iowa. to compete with their long and hard practiced routines. In the end all of their practice paid off as the Steppers stepped onto the gym floor with energy. Their pom routine was given a division one rating by the judges. Their novelty number was a mixture of exaggerated characters—hoods, preps, and nerds. They came home with a second place trophy for their unique routine that was choreographed by teacher, Ms. Kathy Danielson.

Throughout all of their performances and practices, the Steppers proved to have a successful year!

These six were "bad to the bone" and tough to compete with when they performed as hoods in their novelty routine.

Traditional events, success, and leadership bring non-stop enjoyment

Student Government proved to be an organization that is full of good times. Students in every grade worked together as a group to be involved in extra activities around the school.

The first big event that Student Government takes charge of each year is the Homecoming week and dance. In preparation, they decide by majority vote about the theme for each day of the week, the colors, theme and song for the dance. Many hours were spent during the week in constructing and decorating the float that was displayed during the parade before the Homecoming game. The dance was held on Saturday in the gym decorated and prepared by students' all day before the night began. Student government took pleasure in giving such a successful week to their school.

Other activities that have gone on within the group were weekly drug and alcohol lessons given by the sponsor Mr. Walt Kennedy, workshops for selected members who met with other school's members to exchange ideas and ways to get everyone in their school involved.

A student exchange day was hosted by the officers and a few other members for Southeast Polk's officers and a few of their members. The members that attended were given more of an idea of how our school days go. They were surprised at the size of the school and student body. To help the community, clothing and canned foods were taken in by Student Government for those in need.

Student Government gave each member involved a sense of accomplishment that made them proud to be a member.

Quill staff-the new beginning

The yearbook program experienced many changes, new computers and a new adviser. This caused chaos for the first few weeks for the Quill Staff, but they pulled through to achieve the desired goals.

The seniors were skilled enough to handle the different teaching style. They were taught many new ways to make the yearbook look the best ever. Greg Kephart commented, "The new yearbook is on computers and it is more difficult, but in the long run, it will be better."

Bobby Anderson was Editor-in-Chief, Christy Fink was Photo Editor, Gloriana Scharfenberg was Copy Editor, and Jennifer Carnahan was the Design Editor.

The juniors started off the year learning new and different approaches in writing the yearbook. They learned quickly, and soon began the procedure to create the yearbook. Gail Foster stated, "We all played a major role to make a successful Quill."

The major cause of the yearbook being so successful was based on the knowledge of the new teacher. Mr. Kelly, previously an English teacher, took on the new task of being head of the publications program. "We are grateful to the Booster Club and the senior class of '91 for their wonderful gifts of computer equipment for the program," said Mr. Kelly.

A modernization of the Quill is merely the first step in the process of breaking out of tradition. This will be seen next year and the years to come.

The Scroll

The Times They Are A-Changin'

Change was the key element of the Scroll. The most notable change was the retirement of Mr. George Christian as adviser, and the initiation of Mr. Ed Kelly. A second major change was the addition of Macintosh computers to the journalism program. The Scroll staff was thrust into the "electronic age" in which everything, from layout of pages to the writing of stories, was done by computer. The transition shocked some, but quickly proved to be an effective system. A third change was the addition of two extra pages to the Scroll, providing more comprehensive coverage of school events.

Senior James Riley, editor-in-chief, led fellow staff members in the changes that took place throughout the year. Senior Chad Rebel spearheaded the new layout design seen in the Scroll, creating a new nameplate. Other staff members worked diligently, giving the Scroll a new look and depth that pleasantly surprised many students and teachers.

TALKING HEADS

The 1991-1992 seasonwas a successful one for the debate team. The debate team won over seventeen trophies during the course of their season. Outstanding performers were Jennifer Boatwright, Kim Murphy, Ryan Boyer, Josh Emerson, Brian Rebel, Mike Moyle, Jason Bent, and Forrest Wing.

"Forrest Wing and I had a great season this year. We beat one of the best teams in the state at Roosevelt's tournament," commented Jason Bent.

September through March is a busy time for the debaters at East. "We debate 12 weekends in a row September through Christmas without a weekend off. We even compete on Thanksgiving Day!"said Mike Miller, debate sponsor.

Debaters also spend many hours preparing for these tournaments. It is not unusual for them to still be at school at 10pm at night. "I know some of the night janitors better than some of the teachers," replied Mr. Miller when asked about the lengthy practices.

Along with putting in many extra hours at school, debaters continued their hard work over the summer. Forrest Wing, junior, spent three weeks at the University of Michigan at a debate camp. Many other East High debaters traveled all over the country to attend debate camps.

Mr. Mike Miller, speech teacher, has been the debate sponsor for the past four years. The debate team feels he is a hardworking sponsor.

"I don't know how any of us could have made it through the season without the help and patience of Mr. Miller," commented Denny Davis.

What do the Embassy Club, the Council for International Understanding, and bowling have in common? Absolutely nothing, right? Wrong. The French Club was involved in all of these.

"The club was not meant to be just an academic club, but social as well," explained the group's sponsor, Ms. Susan Lorence. "The idea of the club is to build camaraderie and spirit." This was evident when looking at their activities. They spent one day in Omaha, Nebraska, at the Joslin Art Museum, the Henry Doorly Zoo and the French Cafe. Along with this, they celebrated the holidays at the Embassy Club, went bowling and raised money for the Council for International Understanding.

The club's board, seniors Ryan Barton, president and Tim Formanek, vice-president; and juniors Latasha Brown, vice-president; and Corrie Proksa, secretary set up fund-raisers every chance they could to cover their expenses. These included selling gift wrap, "Boo-Pops", jewelry, French candies and French cookbooks.

Although this was only the club's second year, they had hours of fun with activities and fund-raisers.

Slave to the Grind

Photojournalism and Graphic Arts

The Photojournalism and Graphic Arts classes slaved away during the 1991-2 school year at producing the Scroll and the Quill. The Photojournalism class consisted of many students who were responsible for several duties, including taking pictures and printing them.

Almost every day, one of the students from this class was required to travel downtown to Multi-Media to pick up photographs that had been developed for use by the journalism staffs.

The Advanced Graphic Arts class also had a lot of work to do for the Scroll and the Quill. They sliced and printed ads to put on the colossal pages of the Scroll and the final of the Quill. The class also scanned all of the artwork for the Scroll on to the new Macintosh computers.

Both of these support classes are just as important as the journalism staffs because, without them, the Quill and the Scroll would more than likely never come together.

Outstanding students recognized as Kiwanians

"Kiwanians is a priviledge and an honor; to be selected to do something special for being an outstanding student is great," senior Erica Cunningham said of being chosen as Kiwanian of the month for March.

Every month during the school year, a senior is chosen to be Kiwanian of that month. They are chosen as a result of the leadership abilities which they have shown throughout their high school years and also for their capability as a student.

During their month of honor, the Kiwanians attend weekly luncheons on Wednesdays at the Savory Hotel downtown. These luncheons are sponsored by the downtown Kiwanis Club. Seniors are recognized from all of the metropolitan high schools.

Senior Scott Littell commented, "Being chosen as Kiwanian of the month for December is no doubt an honor that is well-worth remembering."

Scarleteers phoned in to welcome freshmen

Scarleteers is a group of volunteer students who act as tour guides for the incoming freshmen. Students who are interested can sign up in the office during spring to be called on to be the guides. Then, in August, each Scarleteer is sent four names of incoming freshman for whom they are responsible. These four freshmen are called by that Scarleteer to be reminded of freshman orientation.

At orientation, in late August, the freshmen are welcomed in the gym by a short speech by Mr. Jerry Stillwell, a short cheer presented by the varsity cheerleaders, and a speech given by the student government president. Following this, the freshmen, split into groups of about 20, are handed over to two or three Scarleteers. They are then given the "grand tour" of our school, usually asking many questions such as, "How much time do we have between classes?"

According to junior Jennifer Thurman, "The freshmen were definitely scared. Their fears of getting lost during the first week or two of school were obvious."

After being given the tours by the Scarleteers, the freshmen were more comfortable with the high school environment they were facing in the coming year. They were encouraged at orientation to get involved with East's many activities and events.

Scarleteers is a good program for those who are interested in meeting and helping out the incoming freshmen. Anyone can sign up, for Scarleteers is a voluntary program, and anyone who does is performing a service for the grateful new students.

Senior Megan Christenson commented, "It's a great way to help out freshmen who have no idea where to go on their first day of school."

"There's not much to say about freshmen orientation, except that it made the first day of my high school years go much smoother." —Junior John Vestal

"I remember going to orientation with friends, which made me more comfortable with the other incoming freshman. I was still a little nervous, though, because East is so big with so many people!"—Sophomore Lisa Towns

"I guess I wasn't really as nervous as some people were, because I had been in East before, so at orientation, nothing was really shocking to me." —Sophomore Tony Coe

New York or bust

Juniors get chance to visit Washington D.C. and New York

Washington D.C. and New York are two cities where most students dream to go but never get the chance. For a select group of juniors this became a reality. These students participated in United Nations Tour. Only a seleted group were able to go on this trip. To qualify the students had to be juniors and they also had to fill out a rigorous aplication which required many personal references. Along with the aplication the students also had to write an essay on why they think it is important to visit the United Nations in New York City.

They not only have to be selected for the trip, but they also have to raise five hundred twenty-five dollars to cover the trip. Getting there is half the hassle though, the trip takes twenty-five hours by charter bus.

Once the students get to their destination the fun really begins. Once in Washington D.C. the students get a chance to visit many historic landmarks and famous museums. Some of these include, The White House, Arlington National Cemetery, the Smithsonian Museum and Ford's Theatre.

After the visit to Washington D.C. the tour then heads for New York City. While in New York the students tour the United Nations building and a foreign nations briefing. Also, there are many sightseeing tours of New York and Manhattan Island. Included in the visit to New York is a night at a Broadway play. The tour also goes to a performance of some kind at Madison Square Garden.

Another group that is sponsered by the United Nations is the Model U.N.. The Model U.N. is a group of students who get together to discuss today's problems. The group also goes to a conference at UNI. At this conference the students represent the countries that make up the U.N.. Each group is assigned two countries and there is a mock United Nations meeting. In this meeting the groups discuss many of todays' problems and tries to give solutions for these. The group is lead by Mr. Stan Thompson.

Portal Staff

Becomes a tradition of creativity

The Portal staff was busy again this year putting together another masterpiece. The Portal is a literary magazine that is operated by all the students who want to get involved. The staff writes and reads the material submitted to the magazine and selects the material that will appear in the magazine. The magazine is made up of literature, artwork, and photography written and created by students.

"The Portal is made up of any kind of creative expression," said Portal sponsor John Raymond. "Much of the time is spent advertising the magazine and encouraging students to submit material," he added. John Raymond, Ms. Jeanne Baitzer, and Mrs. Julia Hagen serve as sponsors.

The Portal had a goal for this its third year in print. "This year we hope to publish the magazine here at school," commented Raymond. In previous years the magazine had been printed by an outside company.

Career Beginnings
Prepares students for future

Career Beginnings is a program in which students explore different careers and job opportunities that they are interested in. The students meet with adults who work in career areas that the students are interested in. Often members would attend tutoring sessions at DMACC and prepare for various college entrance exams. Also, students received information on financial aid. The program introduced them to several colleges and universities that would best meet the students needs. Career Beginnings offered students a head start for a successful future. The program was sponsored by Don Graves.

New Horizons
Keeps students in school

The New Horizons program is an alternative education program which is designed to encourage students to stay in school, become more consistent in their attendance, and improve their school achievement.

"Work experience, a major part of the program, helps these students focus on what they are learning in school and apply that knowledge in the world of work," said Work Advisor Fannie Wilson. Other activities that the students are involved in were a summer youth program, a neighborhood improvement project, and an apprenticeship project.

Organizations Keep

Office calls on student helpers to lend a hand

"Polite, quiet, and cheerful." This is how Mrs. Dorothy Brotherson describes her student office helpers. She commented, "We are very fortunate to have good helpers. We don't have the time which is necessary to do all the things that need to be done!"

Office helpers have important duties such as running errands, filing, escorting students to in-school suspension, and sorting mail. Students receive credit towards graduation for working in the office. It also teaches students some skills which they will be able to use upon their entrance into the work world.

According to Mrs. Brotherson, her office helpers are always to remember that they are in an office and to do what is asked without question.

Students File in to Help Librarians

"The library assistants play a very important role in helping the library run efficiently," said assistant librarian, Mrs. Ann Hoehle. She and Mrs. June Kalsem are apparently both quite pleased with the library assistant program. There are twenty-four students involved, with the help of one or two every period. The students alternate their study centers with helping in the library.

Duties of a library helper include offering assistance at the circulation and the magazine desks, delivering attendance lists, and checking books in and out.

Gifted/Talented, Upward Bound Expand Students' Horizons

The gifted and talented program gives students the opportunity to advance beyond what they would normally do in school. The program stretches students' abilities by involving them in activities which are more challenging than schoolwork.

Sophomore Lori Lethcoe commented, "I liked taking part in Knowledge Masters, a quiz competition."

According to Mrs. Anda Liepa, G/T Sponsor, students are able to work at their own pace. "They choose if they need extra work in order to keep challenging themselves," she explained.

Another group had the opportunity to take part in the Upward Bound program. Every year, 135 students from area schools are accepted into the Upward Bound program. An emphasis on school involvement is placed on the applicants. These students spend six weeks at Central College in Pella, Iowa, taking classes to enrich their knowledge.

Play Production, Theater Arts classes share spotlight

As you walked in the room, you could feel the electricity immediately. The Play Production and Theater Arts classes, under the direction of Ms. Ruth Ann Gaines and student teacher Mr. Beaver, were the cause of this feeling.

Play Production classes were responsible for publicity for the fall play (MASH), the spring musical (Grease), and much more. They were in charge of every light change, prop, and set for the plays and worked for many hours before and after school.

"A play is not just acting," said senior Dawn Dixon, "I work with people who are dedicated and care about the play."

In addition, the Theater Arts classes put in several long hours memorizing lines, getting into character and learning stage movements. The students put their all into each performance and received many letters from downtown expressing appreciation for their talents. "We had many wonderfully talented people in the program," said junior Cadry Nelson.

In order to make these classes possible, Ms. Gaines did something unique to the city. She had afternoon performances arranged for people that wouldn't have a chance to perform without them.

Junior Rick Carolus said, "She's the best teacher I've had!"

Taking dictation for Dean Mercy Lodge, played by senior Kelli King, was sometimes more than junior Angie Irwin's character, Miss Randazzle, could take. The two actresses are enjoying themselves, even if their characters aren't.

In the fall play, MASH, senior Brandon Herrera played a suicidal character whose friends decided to help him by performing surgery. These friends, seniors Dawn Dixon, Tizzy Hyatt, Shondra Kellogg, and John Parcel look in amazement when they find out: "He's alive! He's alive!"

ACTING UP

Thespians is an international honor society for students in the theater.

Students who are talented enough and who have totalled enough points are accepted into Thespians which is a world-wide organization.

As members of the group, they are given the chance to attend conventions in Iowa and all over the country. These conventions have Thespians from all over the world, so students come into contact with different styles of acting. Students in Thespians gain recognition for their talent.

Scarlet Vibrations is a performing group that tours the city. As a major positive publicity medium for East, they go to surrounding elementary schools and perform plays and musical scenes from famous plays as well as doing mime performances. And what do students get out of Vibrations? "One of the best things we do in class is mimes," said sophomore Carrie Kern. "I'm also really looking forward to doing the play 'Dolls'."

Drama Club is a group that supports the drama department. Run entirely by students, the club helps to support students in drama. Fund-raisers and possible trips to see plays are only a few of the many activities enjoyed by Drama Club members.

PEOPEL PE - more than a gym class

Peopel PE is a class were many unique students worked hard toward success. Whether it was a touchdown in flag-football or a strike earned in bowling, this was a class where peer helpers and special education students participated together in achieving their goals.

The program was started by Mr. Hurley and Ms. Victory in 1981, but is currently instructed by Mr. Ric Powell. There were 49 students selected for the program. These students helped give self-esteem and importance to the 38 special education students enrolled.

Together these outstanding students worked hard and prepared many events and activities. The haunted house, peer helpers trip to Van Meter, and the first dance for Johnny Moore, Julie Williams, Jenny McNally, and Dave Merten, are just a few of the activities in the Peopel PE program.

The best feeling Mr. Powell had about the program was when the peer helpers did something extra special. They bought Homecoming tickets for two couples in the class. " It was the first Homecoming they had ever been to," said Mr. Powell, " and it was truly made into a special evening."

From strikes to touchdowns, and from haunted houses to Homecoming, you could be sure that these 87 students felt their friendships grow stronger.

If you want to listen to the song "I Wanna Sex You Up," just go ask sophomore Johnny Moore. His "Brother", junior Tim Vail, exactly knows who to ask for the number one hits.

STUDENTS FIGHT FOR A BETTER PLANET

As concerns for the planet grow, many people have taken charge, including a new organization called Students for the Planet. This environmentally aware group was invented and organized by junior Annika Stroope. At first, she just wanted to see how many people were actually interested in how our world was developing, but when the meeting came around, she noticed that several people did care.

"We didn't just only care about the environment, we wanted to help the homeless and the poor people out on the streets," stated Stroope.

Earlier, Students for the Planet joined together to conduct a paper drive to help the planet. It turned out to be a huge success. Later, they concentrated on the spring event, Earth Day. The motivated group had an even better turn out than they had for the paper drive.

In coming years, the group hopes to encourage more EHS students to become environmental "watchdogs."

DID YOU KNOW...

-Each American throws away about 60 pounds of plastic packaging every year.

-Most crayons are made from oil. Since oil comes from prehistoric creatures, you might be coloring with the last remains of a Tyrannosaurus Rex!

-Styrofoam is a danger to sea animals. Floating in the water, it looks like their food. But when they eat it, they're in trouble. Sea turtles, for example, sometimes eat Styrofoam and then-because it makes them float-can't dive again. It eventually clogs their systems and then they starve to death.

-If you leave the water running while you brush your teeth, you waste five gallons of water. That's enough to fill 13 cans of soda.

-Most of the water in the world isn't drinkable.

-Americans use 35 million paper clips a year.

YOU CAN HELP BY...

-Look for ways to practice precycling. That means buying things which come in packages that can be recycled.

-Use beeswax crayons. They aren't made from oil. Use water-based, paints. Paint and draw on recycled paper.

-If you eat at fast-food restaurants, ask for paper cups and plates. If the people at the restaurant say they don't have them, explain why you don't want to use Styrofoam. Tell them that, as much as you like their food, you really don't want to do anything to hurt the Earth.

-Aluminum foil us reusable. Wash it off, let it dry, and put it away. When it can't be used again, recycle it.

-When you brush your teeth: Just wet your brush, then turn off the water...and then turn it on again when you need to rinse your brush off. You'll save up to nine gallons of water.

-You can recycle almost all kinds of paper.

TODAY'S STUDENTS AND TOMORROW'S PROFESSIONALS

Have you ever wondered why people leave school in the middle of the day? Well, it's because they have to go to work. They are part of the Business Professions of America and any 11th or 12th grade student can get involved. Members of this prestigious group come to school in the morning and leave for school in the afternoon.

Senior Laura Patterson stated, "This is my first year in the program and I really enjoy it. I wished I would've joined earlier."

Students really benefit from this program because it gives them a chance to earn money and be responsible. During the course of the program, members try and recruit other students to attend.

"I go to school in the morning and then go to work in the afternoon and I really enjoy it," stated senior Amy Lortscher. Many students just think it's an excuse to leave school, but it's not. It's today's students and tomorrow's business professionals.

Senior Jennifer Dehnert diligently works at the job she got through the Business Professionals of America. Business Professionals of America has helped several other students also get jobs and still be able to attend school.

Where are the parents??

An important factor to the school is not only the students and teachers, but also the parents. Together these three main teams worked hard on changes and improvements. Two groups were organized to set the teams to work.

The Site Base Council (SBC), was the first group to work toward achieving school decisions. The group was selected by theparents chosing the parents, Student Government members chose the students, and the teachers for SBC were chosen by the staff.

This advisory group led by Mr. Stilwell looked at school policies and procedures. They helped make the decisions about school changes and developed the school improvement plan.

Another group was the Parent Teacher Student Association (PTSA). This group helped provide funding for the school. During the athletic season, they ran the concession stand for Scarlet fans. By spreading "Scarlet Fever," the PTSA sold paraphernalia which displayed the red and black on personal belongings and equipment.

Remember, not only are the students and teachers a large part of the school, but the parents also play an important role. They made important decisions and took care of the student body when it needed help both educationally and financially.

As the smoke rolls into the evening air, many fans line up to get a taste of the fine barbecuing hamburgers.

'DEW'ing it right

Mr. Ric Powell organized a successful program in 1990. The new members escalated from 23 to 53 in the spring of '91 to the fall of '91. What did these 53 students not want to miss out on??

The new program started was called Drug Education Works, also known as the DEW Crew. The DEW Crew is a group working to educate younger generations on drugs and alcohol. They traveled to elementary and junior middle schools and told their own personal feelings and experiences on the topic.

In order to be a member of the DEW Crew, you needed only one qualification, your determination to educate your younger peers and a commitment to be drug and alcohol free. A student had to fill out an application to become involved. Then, when accepted to the DEW Crew, you signed a pledge that gave your commitment to not using drugs, alcohol, and tobacco.

The pledge emphasized the students' leadership of fellow students. It stated that 1)The member would set an example and abstain from drugs, alcohol, and tobacco use; 2)A member would seek information and assistance in dealing with problems; 3)A member would never ride in a car with a person currently under the influence of drugs or alcohol; and 4)A member would always be honest and open with parents about their personal needs and also with Mr. Powell and other school personnel.

The DEW Crew members carried large responsibilities: being positive role models, remaining to be drug and alcohol free, and offering to be a designated drivers whenever around others who wanted to drive while under the influence.

Junior Kim Rollins felt that of all her responsibilities "to show the elementary students how to avoid being pressured" was the biggest.

They also created many positive aspects for their peers. They organized the Post Prom Party, went to a training session at the Embassy Suites, spoke at assemblies, and held meetings every week to be updated on the newest statistics and facts. When Mr. Powell was asked about the most positive aspect about DEW Crew, he said that even if one person becomes drug or alcohol free, that's a success.

" I think being in the DEW Crew is a great experience. I wish people knew what we were doing in helping the younger ones," commented junior Heidi Gerstenberger.

Students, community profit from sales class

"Considering the number of jobs our students have and the number of entry level sales positions," said Mrs. Nancy Hansen, " I feel this class meets the needs of the community in preparing students for employment." What class was she speaking of? Marketing Education, one of the many vocational education classes here.

To many, this class may have seemed like the ticket to an easy "A", but it wasn't. Each person was told that they were responsible for putting what they learned to work. If they did not want to go through this process, they were asked to drop.

Students learned skills such as how to approach customers, how to present a sale and most imortant, how to close a sale.

Crew seldom noticed; always seen, heard

There was a group that none of us seemed to notice but would have truly missed if it weren't there. This was the light and sound crew under its second year of direction by Pat Wilson.

This group of volunteers got more out of their job than getting out of class. They gained experience in handling and repairing electrical equipment for assemblies and other school functions such as mixers.

Class remodels lives, opens door to future

As people drove through the Logan area this year, they probably noticed one house that seemed to be constantly under construction. The morning and afternoon Home-Remodeling classes worked on this house throughout the year, under the supervision of first year teacher, Bill Oleson.

Every morning, the class would meet and ride together to the site where they worked for three hours before the afternoon class replaced them.

The work they did gave them hands-on experience in carpentry, plumbing, electrical work, remodeling and repair that will help them if they pursue a career in any of these fields.

This class was a lot of work, but the students did a great job and had a chance to show their work at an open house in May.

Acappella Choir blazes in victory for EHS

Acappella choir triumphed and achieved more than ever before. For starters eight members were inducted to the All-State choir. Grueling practices led to very difficult tryouts with challenging music. Six thousand high school musicians tried out, yet only six hundred made it. Senior, Leia Fensterman stated " All-State was one of the best things that ever happened to me. I'm so glad I was a part of it."

Show choir did tremendously well also. They went to state and recieved a 1 rating, the highest achievement possible. They also placed 10th out of the 32 schools at Urbandale competition, the toughest in the region. They also placed high in the Fort Madison invitational.

" In show choir, I felt we were a real team, that is why we did so well," said Matt Oltman junior.

Many other events took place throughout the year such as large group, small group, and chamber choir competions.

None of these accomplishments could have been possible without the direction of Mr. James Weaver. He went out of his way to make sure the choir members achieved the highest level possible.

The Acappella choir greatly bettered East's reputation in the vocal music department.

These talented young men, better known as the Acappella choir guys strut their stuff during a rehearsal. These are very crucial to the performance.

New techniques helped Concert choir be successful

Concert choir practices dilligently for an upcoming concert. These practices helped to make concert choir an excellent group.

Choir director Jim Weaver straightens his tie in pride because his choirs are so successful. Hard work and dedication made this success possible

Concert choir improved mainly in vocal techniques. In class they worked on diction, vowel unification, posture and breathing. This helped boost the ability of concert choir to perform well. The reward for their work was to perform at Merle Hay Mall during the Christmas season numerous times. They also performed with Acappella Choir at state large group competition. This consisted of performing difficult music and recieving a rating.

A new addition to the choir program was second semester tryouts. This process involved singing for the director Mr. Weaver. He looked for tone quality and vocal technique in picking members for the various choirs.

" Concert choir was a success due to second semester tryouts and also hard work." says Kim Mullin , Junior.

Concert choir achieved excellence during the 91-92 school year. Hard work and determination made this all possible.

Back to the Basics

East High Scarlet Choir, first and second period, was a time to set down the books and work on the basics. The basics of music, of course! Last year known as Prep Choir, it is more of a training choir for the voices. First period and second period consisted of a total of seventy members conducted by music teacher Jim Weaver. He has taught Scarlet Choir for three years at East.

Scarlet Choir works on the techniques of breathing, rhythm, sight-reading and basic vocal technique. "I learned a lot of techniques and singing styles which helped me improve my voice," junior Michelle Alderman stated. The no-limit, non-audition classes of male and female students sang with the voices of sopranos, altos, tenors and basses.

"Scarlet Choir," commented Mr. Weaver, " is better than I expected this year. There are more singers who are working harder."

Although Scarlet Choir One is the same as Scarlet Two they rarely sang or practiced together. Scarlet choirs' flashy attire and bright smiles are accented by their new robes that last year's fundraisers accomplished. Both periods worked hard to perfect song styles with a mixture of sacred, top forty ballads and Latin songs for State Large Group Contest and State Small Group Contest held in April and May.

Senior Christine Thompson and freshmen Terri Olson and Kathy Thompson sing in harmony with music teacher Jim Weaver.

Marching to the beat of a different drum

Regiment plays on the D.C. Plaza

Your adrenaline is pumping through you; this is your chance to prove what you're made of. This is the feeling that many of the 58 Marching Band members felt before each performance.

The band started the season in August with a four day camp. During this time, 18 new members got acquainted with marching while the rest were re-learning basic marching skills. They practiced from 7:00 A.M. through first hour, in all weather but rain, to memorize their music and moves. Their performances in the State Fair Parade, the Fall Jamboree, Valleyfest, State Marching Contest, football games, the Pella Tulip Fest, the Drake Relays Parade, and Washington, D.C. gave them a goal and brought them closer together.

"During the end, everyone started putting a lot of effort into it," said sophomore trumpeter Nancy Lee.

The Color Guard played an important role in the performances. Their job was to interpret the music and choreograph moves that made the music visible to the audience. This work made the show flow smoothly and took some of the pressure off the band.

"I wouldn't give it up for anything," said junior Color Guard member Heather McClannahan, "Marching Band people are the best!"

This thought sums up the feelings of many of the band members. Unlike other organizations, the band was constantly together and grew closer because of it.

Every person is needed to make the band complete; senior Greg Kephart does his part to help by playing in half-time shows.

One of the most awkward instruments to march with is the drum. Junior Brandon Lindsey takes it in stride and keeps the beat for the band on his quads.

Senior Erica Cunningham gives the count-off to the band in one of its many performances. She was the driving force that made these performances possible.

Orchestra plays Capital Square

Concert Band prepares for D.C.

Jazz Band gains new members

The Orchestra had a very busy year. They played many concerts including a special performance in Capital Square. They also worked with orchestras from the other four Des Moines high schools. This all-city orchestra performed at 3 area junior highs. The orchestra is lead by Mr. Jim Braninger, a part time instructor who is also the assistant concert master for the Des Moines Symphony.

The Jazz Band also had a very busy schedule. The band played many competitions and concerts. With only 7 returning players the band had to work very hard to succeed. For the first time the band had ten first time players. " I thought we did well considering all the newcomers in the band, " said senior Greg Kephart. The Jazz Band received a Division Two rating at state contest.

Meanwhile the Concert Band was busy preparing for the Washington D.C. trip. The band spent countless hours practicing for the trip, but the trip was not the only thing they worked on. The band also worked on music for concerts. Such music included highlights from such musicals as "Cats" and "Phantom of the Opera".

Many of the students in the band also participated in honor bands. These honor bands were one day festivals where the students get a chance to play with other musicians from around the state.

THERE'S AN ARMY OF CHOICES OUT THERE.

The Army Experience. It's valuable to have- whether you choose to get it full-time in the Active Army or part-time in the Army Reserves.

Both will give you training in a wide choice of specialty skills...both can earn you thousands of dollars for college, free and clear...both will give you the chance to share interesting experiences with new friends.

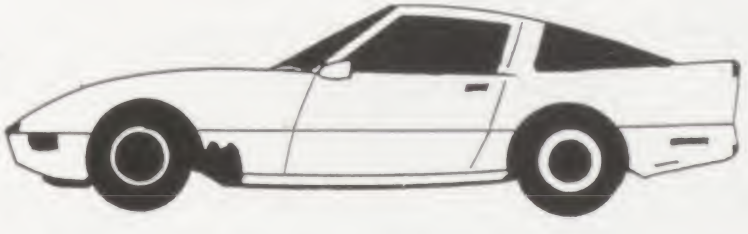

And both the Active Army and Army Reserve will help you gain self-confidence and learn to handle responsibility-so both will give you an edge that will last you the rest of your life.

Which choice is better for you at this stage of your life? Talk it over with your Army Recruiter.

A Continuing Partnership

Pride

It's a feeling of accomplishment. Accomplishment in learning, in making friends and in knowing the years spent at East High have been the very best.

Pride

It demands the hard work and support of everyone. This total commitment has carried East to the pinnacle. And it is the same commitment that will keep East High No.1.

Pride

Iowa Power also shares this

Pride

in the many East High progams
and their participants,

Pride

in the student body,

Pride

in the community, and

Pride

in continuing allaince with East.

The students of East are the leaders of tommorow. Leaders who will someday serve in government, business, and the community. As the journey into the future becomes reality, Iowa Power will also be there.

Best Friends 4-Ever

This is the weed that Jack bought. Jack got it from Bobby. Bobby is Jack's best friend. Bobby bought it from his pal at school, Tony. Tony knew this neighborhood connection—Sid or someone. Sid made a deal with a guy downtown who scored it from some dude down south who blew away two cops to get it over the border. Just for Jack.

Traci,

It seems like only yesterday I heard your little voice say,
"Mommy, come outside and play."
There have been so very many joys,
From training wheels to dates with boys.
The years, like seconds have flown past.
And you've grown up so very fast.

Now it's graduation day.
Here's what we would like to say.
We hope you get life's very best.

When you were born early and tiny
"We were proud".
When you started school and excelled
"We were proud".
When you took a chance and competed
"We were proud".
Now as you graduate and start your adult life.

"WE ARE PROUD"
To be your family.

COLOPHON

The Herff Jones Yearbook Company of Marceline, Missouri produced 1400 copies of the 1992 Quill. Twenty-seven staff members put together the 340 page spring-delivery book on 80 lb. offset paper.

The lithograph cover has applied colors of black, purple, turquoise and flamingo. Endsheets are turquoise. The 8.5"x11" book is printed with offset lithography and is smyth-sewn, rounded and backed.

The majority of the copy throughout the book was 10 point Times, with captions in 9 points and italics. Headlines were primarily done in Avant Garde, Times and Helvetica.

All pages with the exception of the ad section were submitted on disk using 7 Macintosh computers and Aldus Pagemaker 4.1 with the Herff Jones PageMaster template. Background for some of the pages was submitted as camera-ready art.

Books were sold from September through November for $27.50 with a Student Activity Ticket and $30 without. The Quill was completed on March 6th. The Herff Jones representatives were Todd Schwartz and Paul Havnen.
